Climbing Food Prices Lead Living Cost Rise

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher grocery prices nicked more than a penny from the purchasing power of every food dollar last month, but a drop in housing and new car prices held down the overall rise in living costs and cheered the White House.

"This has to be interpreted as good news indeed—extremely good news, very reassuring," said President Nixon's chief economic adviser Paul McCracken, after the government's March living costs report came out Wednesday.

The overall rise in living costs was three-tenths of one per cent, pushing the government's Consumer Price Index up to 119.8, said the report by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. This meant it cost $11.98 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases in the 1967 period on which the index is based.

Sharp Increase
Grocery prices rose 1.1 per cent, sharpest monthly increase in six months, but housing costs declined two-tenths of one per cent, almost entirely because of a continuing drop in mortgage interest rates.

New car prices dropped eight-tenths of one per cent, but used cars were up 1.2 per cent. Overall transportation costs rose three-tenths of one per cent because of additional price increases for train, plane and bus travel, the report said.

Clothing costs rose four-tenths of one per cent, including a 1.3 per cent increase for men's wear, the biggest rise in several years. Women's wear declined by two-tenths.

Medical costs rose eight-tenths of one per cent because of a continuing sharp rise in doctors' fees and hospital charges, the report said.

McCracken said the best news in the report were figures showing that on a seasonally adjusted basis, prices the first three months of 1971 rose at an annual rate of 2.7 per cent for the smallest first-quarter rise in four years.

Prices over the year were up 4.6 per cent, compared with calendar year 1970's 5.5 per cent rise and 1969's 6.1 per cent hike, biggest two-year jump in two decades.

AFL-CIO economist Nathaniel Goldfinger, persistent critic of Nixon's economic policies, said, "The cost of living is still rising rapidly."

Proxmire Encouraged
But another frequent critic, Sen. William Proxmire, D., Wis., chairman of the joint House-Senate Economic Committee, said, "This is the most encouraging indication in many months that the President's program of inflation control is beginning to work."

McCracken, speaking to newsmen at the White House, said he did not want to suggest that the battle against inflation had been won, but that the administration was approaching its goal of "a new stability in the price level."

The higher food prices, particularly for meats and fresh fruits and vegetables, accounted for more than two-thirds of the March rise in overall living costs, the report said.

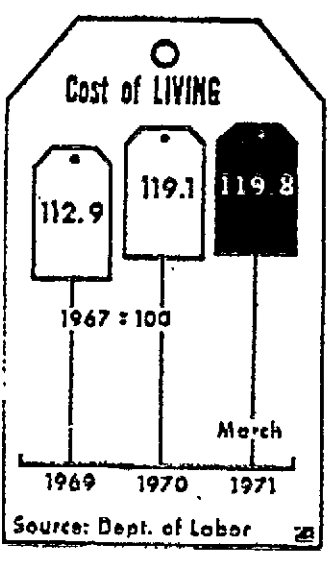

Restaurant Meals
"Food prices rose 1.1 per cent in March, the sharpest monthly rise since late 1969," it said.

"Prices of meats, fish and dairy products rose instead of declining seasonally. Increases in prices of poultry and fresh fruits and vegetables were considerably larger than normal and egg prices declined much less than usual," it added.

Prices of restaurant meals and snacks away from home rose three-tenths of one per cent, a little less than the two previous months, the report said.

A continuing decline in home mortgage interest rates was largely responsible for the drop in housing prices, and held overall living costs down an estimated two-tenths of one per cent, it said.

Rents rose three-tenths of one per cent, less than the previous month, while home maintenance and repair, water and sewer rates rose more than in recent months, the report said.

Social Security Tax Hike Put At 41 Per Cent

Employee's Additional Deduction Would Be $166.80 Yearly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day of reckoning is here on the cost of Social Security-Medicare benefit changes approved by the House Ways and Means Committee—and the likely tab may be a 41-per-cent increase in payroll taxes.

That would mean a maximum of $166.80 each for employee and employer.

The committee has approved, subject to a final vote, costly increases in Social Security benefits, including higher payments for widows; a cost-of-living adjustment in the future, more leeway for pensioners' earnings and extension of medicare to the disabled.

The committee started work Wednesday on payroll-tax changes needed to finance the increases. No firm decision has been reached, but sources said the most likely outcome would be an increase in the payroll tax Jan. 1, 1972, to 5.4 per cent on a base of $10,600 in wages.

This would mean a total of $72.40 in tax withheld from anyone earning $10,600 or more in 1972 and an equal amount from his employer.

By contrast, the rate this year is 5.2 per cent on a $7,800 maximum, or $405.60.

The committee may still work out a different financing method, or even cut back on some of the benefit increases.

Soviet Missile Power Thought Ahead of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said today the Soviet Union could deploy 70 huge new missiles this year packing "more destructive power than the United States has in its entire land-based Minuteman ICBM system."

Jackson, who said in March the Russians were deploying an advanced generation of missiles said "we have now learned that Soviet construction of this system is moving ahead at a rapid rate."

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York Wednesday that recent intelligence confirms Russia "is involved in a new and apparently extensive ICBM construction program." Aides said the new evidence appeared this month.

"Laird appeared to be laying groundwork for an earlier-than-expected decision on whether to ask Congress for more money and authority to expand this nation's nuclear forces, at an eventual cost of billions of dollars."

Laird said the U.S. hopes for "convincing progress" at the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) with the Soviets.

But one Pentagon official said "hopes for SALT are not going anywhere but down," because Soviet moves "have narrowed the time in which we can negotiate from a stand-pat position."

Laird gave no details of the recent evidence he cited. But associates indicated he was talking about new, operational launch silos.

Jackson elaborated in an interview and a Boston speech reported for delivery today at the World Affairs Council, said.

Julian Bond Undergoes Emergency Treatment

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Civil rights activist and Georgia legislator Julian Bond was in satisfactory condition at an Albany hospital today after he was rushed to the emergency room Wednesday night with abdominal pains.

A spokesman at Albany Medical Center Hospital said Bond was undergoing extensive tests and observation.

Bond, 31, was stricken in his motel room. He was to participate in Black Week activities Wednesday night at the State University campus here.

"We know this new system involves missiles not less destructive than the 25-megaton SS9 and it could mean missiles that are far more destructive."

More Destructive
The Pentagon has said the Soviets have more than 300 SS9s, with multiple warheads, could knock out 95 per cent of the 1,000 U.S. Minuteman missiles in their launch silos.

"The Russians have an ability to deploy at least 60 to 70 of these huge new missiles this year," Jackson said. "If they deploy 70 of the new missiles they will add in this one year alone more destructive power than the United States has in its entire land-based Minuteman ICBM system."

He told a reporter 70 of the new missiles could pack a total of 1,750 megatons of nuclear explosive.

Jackson said there is no direct evidence that the Russians have yet flight-tested the new missile, however.

Pentagon experts say the presence of new, operational silos spotted by American reconnaissance satellites means the Soviets are going ahead with their expensive launch bases even before their new missiles are fully ready.

Duvalier Dies; Haiti Left in Son's Control

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Dictator Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier is dead at 64. His 19-year-old son Jean Claude was announced today as the new president of Haiti.

An announcement from the presidential palace said: "President Duvalier is dead after a three-month illness. He passed away last night." The death apparently occurred about 8 p.m., but it was not disclosed until 12 hours later.

Haitian radio stations began playing funeral music. Some women were seen weeping at street corners. Others stood aimlessly along roads, listening to the distant strains of a palace guards band, playing somberly.

Son Cheered
Jean Claude, who will be 20 in May, was designated months ago by his father as the heir to the presidency. He was cheered by a throng when he appeared in the garden in front of the palace. Officials said he already had been sworn into office—apparently during the night.

The official radio announced a new Cabinet with only two holdovers.

The elderly Duvalier, a little doctor who built a political machine out of a mixture of Voodoo, pressure and popular appeal, had run the country with an iron hand for nearly 14 years.

Change Constitution
None of the announcements reported the cause of death. The "president for life," as he had himself designated, had suffered a series of strokes. He was also a diabetic.

As his health weakened, Duvalier asked the republic's legislature in January to change the constitution to allow his son to take over as president in the event anything happened to him. This was because Jean Claude was below the previously established age.

Before he became '64 last week, associates said Duvalier would make a birthday appearance to demonstrate that he was healthy and strong. He did not. His son took his place. The palace insisted that Duvalier needed rest on the orders from his doctors.

Duvalier's death raised speculation of a struggle for power, despite the appointment of his son as successor.

Near Cuba
Since Haiti is only 46 miles from Cuba at the nearest point, the hemisphere is sensitive to its upheavals and the possibility of a thrust in Haiti's direction from Fidel Castro's Communists.

Diplomatic sources foresaw the possibility of a long period of chaos in this tiny, impoverished Caribbean nation of five million. A struggle for power could be concentrated, meanwhile, among the high-ranking officers of Duvalier's armed litual struggle in Haiti.

In the new Cabinet list only Secretary of Education Edner Brutus and Secretary of Commerce Lebert Jean-Pierre were retained. Adrien Raymond, deputy secretary of foreign affairs, is the new foreign secretary.

Papa Doc
Duvalier, known to all Haitians as Papa Doc, was a spectacular dictator even in the Western Hemisphere, whose history has had more than its share of harsh dictatorships.

He rose to power in 1957 by means of an election that appeared then to have been adroitly manipulated by army elements loyal to him, so that he could get the entire peasant

Single Nationwide Integration Policy Urged in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contending the government applies separate standards to the North and South, Southern senators are urging Congress to write a national school-desegregation policy to be administered by the White House.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., planned to ask the Senate today to add the uniform policy to a Nixon administration bill authorizing $1.5 billion a year to aid states in school desegregation.

Another pending amendment, by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., would allow school districts to use the money for any purpose.

By a 51-33 vote Wednesday the Senate rejected a tough national-policy measure offered by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn. It would have integrated black, inner-city pupils into suburban schools in every metropolitan area of the nation over a 10-year period.

Sham Policy
Stennis said Nixon administration policy on school desegregation "is a sham and a pretense when it is called a uniform policy."

While strong action has been taken against Southern school districts, he said, "virtually nothing has been done anywhere outside the South."

In a 56-36 vote last year, the Senate adopted a similar Stennis national-policy amendment, which was watered down heavily in conference with the House.

The stronger Ribicoff proposal went down before an unusual coalition including civil rights groups, the Nixon administration, a majority of Southerners who voted and several liberals with big cities in their states.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the measure could have delayed integration by postponing it in some cities for 10 years.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare wrote that President Nixon felt it would be "a serious mistake" to adopt the amendment.

Southern senators opposed it by a majority of 8 to 7, with many saying it would pose unacceptable conditions for their communities.

However, some said privately they were voting for it in the hope its adoption would kill the desegregation-money bill.

"The question my amendment poses is a simple one," Ribicoff said. "Shall we have a double standard in the United States, shall we have desegregation only in the South, or in the North as well?"

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., contended Ribicoff was unfair in accusing Southern senators opposing the amendment of hypocrisy.

"The situation in the North where residential patterns cause segregation is not at all the same as in the South where there has been an officially imposed pattern for 100 years," Javits asserted.

Visit to Arab Lands Contemplated Hostile Show Likely Against Rogers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arab anger at the U.S. sale of more warplanes to Israel may result in hostile demonstrations if U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers visits the Middle East the first week in May.

State Department aides said Wednesday that Rogers hoped to visit Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia after he attends the meeting next week in Turkey of the Central Treaty Organization. But already newspapers in Beirut and Cairo are whipping up an anti-American campaign reminiscent of the criticism that sparked demonstrations during Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco's visit to Beirut a year ago.

Beirut's Al Liwa said Lebanese Foreign Minister Khalil Abuhamad had asked U.S. Ambassador William Buffum for an explanation of the U.S. sale of 12 more Phantom fighter-bombers to Israel.

Why the Wait?
Al Shaab, another Beirut paper, asked the 100 million Arabs: "What are you waiting for in order to move against U.S. interests in the Arab world?"

A visit by Rogers would be the first by a U.S. Secretary of State to the Arab world since John Foster Dulles went to Cairo in 1955.

The Phantom deal shared the spotlight in Egypt with Israel's new conditions for an agreement permitting reopening of the Suez Canal. Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said Egypt "categorically rejects" the Israeli demands, but sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli government believes it has advanced the issue to the stage of active negotiations.

National Responsibilities
Al Ahram repeated Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's condition that his troops must cross the canal to "assume their national responsibilities" if Israeli forces pull back from the east bank.

A primary Israeli condition for reopening of the waterway is that neither Egyptian nor Soviet forces cross it and occupy territory evacuated by the Israelis.

Israel also has called for an Egyptian pledge not to resume that the canal issue he regarded separate from an over-all Middle East settlement.

Al Ahram said that "reopening of the canal must be a procedural move towards an overall settlement... including total withdrawal from occupied Arab territories."

The Israelis have repeatedly rejected the idea of total withdrawal from land they occupied in the 1967 war. Israel says that it is going to improve its security by retaining the Golan Heights of Syria, Sharm el Sheikh protecting the waterway to the port of Eilat and the Gaza Strip, and is also going to hold on to the Arab sector of Jerusalem.

In late March, Sadat renewed his offer to reopen the Suez Canal if Israel made a partial withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula. He said Egyptian troops would cross the canal as the Israelis pulled back, but Egypt would agree to "practical arrangements" to separate the Israeli and Egyptian forces.

Premier Golda Meir, at a meeting Monday with U.S. Ambassador Walworth Barbour, delivered Israel's conditions for an agreement with Egypt to reopen the canal. Israeli officials expressed satisfaction at the State Department's preliminary appraisal that the proposals formed a "basis for further negotiations." They consider that Mrs. Meir's statement to Barbour has advanced matters out of the arena of public oratory and onto the level of active negotiations.

George Bush, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Wednesday that his government, in serving as a channel for the Suez proposals, is "not trying to pre-empt" the Arab-Israeli peace mission of U.N. mediator Gennady V. Jarring.

Soviets Unhappy
U.S. sources reported that the Soviet Union was unhappy over the intermediary role being taken by the United States. But Bush told newsmen: "I think the general feeling of the United Nations is that if any country can serve a useful role in this, more power to them."

The Israeli state radio said the French government has changed its attitude toward sale of Mirage warplanes to Libya because of the new federation of Syria, Egypt and Libya. The French Foreign Ministry said Monday that France would not deliver the rest of the planes Libya has ordered if Libya transfers to Egypt or Syria any of those already delivered. But Radio Israel's Paris correspondent reported that Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann said in a private conversation Tuesday that France should impose an embargo on the planes now or at least delay deliveries.

Girl Wins Thanks For Act of Love

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Mary Perkins, an 11-year-old white girl who gave up her Christmas savings to buy gifts for black children, is being honored by a black sorority here.

"Mary is the youngest exponent of interracial peace we know of," said Dorthula R. Wright of the Pittsburgh alumnae chapter of Delta Sigma Theta.

"Many black children are so bitter that we felt it was absolutely necessary for them to know a white Southern girl did a kind deed for a black family."

Mary, a sixth grader in Sweetwater, Fla., had read of a black family, the Floyd Crawfords, who were evicted from their apartment shortly before Christmas. The black police officer who had been ordered to evict them gave the family $30 to pay their lodging for the night.

Christmas Shopping
So Mary decided to take the four Crawford children Christmas shopping.

On Christmas Day, Mary was beaten and later harassed by a group of white teenagers who taunted her with cries of "nigger-lover."

In a letter to Mary's mother, Mrs. Crawford wrote: "Brenda and Anthony talk about little Mary all the time. They ask me if they are going to see her again. I told them I didn't know. I hope so. But we wouldn't want to cause any more trouble for her."

Mary has received thousands of letters commending her for her act. Among them were messages from President and Mrs. Nixon and Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP.

Congressional Record
Her name also appears in the February edition of the Congressional Record, after Rep. Claude Pepper D-Fla. introduced a resolution honoring her.

When Mary returned in late January from an appearance on Canadian television, she said: "It's all so beautiful. I feel very good helping people. I'll never change, never."

Mrs. Wright believes Delta Sigma Theta is the first black group to honor Mary. On May 6, she will receive their Social Action Humanitarian Award. She'll also visit some schools here.

"But not before she stops at my school," said Mrs. Wright, a teacher in nearby Vandergrift. "My students would never forgive me."

YOUR SATISFACTION IS OUR GOAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — District of Columbia police broke up a demonstration by Vietnam veterans on the steps of the Supreme Court building today, leading about 150 of the antiwar activists away to jail.

The veterans, in town this week for a series of activities aimed at speeding an end to the Vietnam war, offered generally no resistance as police escorted them from the steps under the huge pillars of the court to a police bus.

Some of the veterans told newsmen they were protesting specifically in opposition to Wednesday's Supreme Court decision upholding a U.S. District Court ruling forbidding the veterans to sleep, build fires or pitch tents on the Capital Mall where they have been staying all week.

Many of the veterans at the court clasped their hands on top of their heads and marched off with the police in what they called "prisoner of war style."

The veterans and about a half dozen girl antiwar protesters showed up at the court about 8:45 a.m. and began singing and chanting "Bring our boys home now. Bring 'em home." And: "All we are saying is give peace a chance."

Some of their slogans included obscenities but the group was otherwise orderly.

At 9:15 and again at 10:15 a.m. just before police moved in, Capt. V. W. Coble of the Supreme Court police announced to the protesters: "You are in violation of U.S. Code, Sec. 1507. You must stop demonstrating and leave the premises immediately or you will be subject to arrest."

Nevertheless, Wednesday night, the veterans voted 480-400 to continue staying at the Mall site through the week of activities. They voted to sleep at that site, in violation of the court order.

The court upheld a lower-court ruling which banned camping on the grassy area between the Capitol and Lincoln Memorial. And former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, a lawyer for Vietnam Veterans Against the War, suggested the demonstrators obey the order.

But a 480-400 vote Wednesday night affirmed sentiment voiced throughout the day by protest leaders: "Hell no, we won't go."

Spokesmen for the Justice Department, District of Columbia police and National Park Police indicated no action would be taken immediately against the battle-clad veterans.

"We are not going in there at 1 in the morning and pick up some wounded veteran and throw him into the street," said Park Police Lt. William R. Kinsey. "We don't treat people like that."

Lt. L. H. Herring, asked if it might take days for official word of the court order to reach Park Police, smiled and replied, "You're right."

No Violence

But lie veterans, who promised any resistance to police would be nonviolent, took some precautionary measures as drizzle, wind and darkness moved across the campground.

They asked all nonveterans to leave, requested money for bail and told state protest chairmen to submit to lawyers the names of protesters who would submit to arrest. Several accepted offers to sleep in private homes while others moved into some congressional offices made available for the night.

Among the after-dark visitors as the war veterans ended the third day of their scheduled five-day protest was Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich. Earlier in the day he had sought to put the Senate on record in favor of the Mall campsites. The move was blocked temporarily by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The injunction against the demonstrators bars camping on National Park land between 4:30 p.m. and 9 a.m.

An agreement reached between veterans' leaders and the government, was interpreted to mean the order banned sleeping, lying in bedrolls, making any fire, cooking, erecting any shelter and digging on the Mall.

Tents Up

Several tents have been erected earlier in the area and were left standing. Most of the veterans used bedrolls or bedding.

Clark announced the court order with the statement: "I would like you to comply with it."

Al Hubbard, executive secretary of the protest group, urged that all the able-bodied remain at the campsite but stay awake all night. "We're going to stay and fight this thing," he said.

But Sam Schorr, 23-year-old veteran from Los Angeles, submitted a counterproposal to ignore the court order.

"Let's pitch our tents and sleep here," he said to cheers. "Let them carry us off."

The veterans then divided into state delegations and two hours later came up with their decision to sleep in the area.

There was little pattern in the way the vote went with states like Pennsylvania voting 94 to 0 to stay and sleep while Virginia cast its votes 40 to 0 to stay awake.

All told, some 20 members of Congress visited the Mall campsite Wednesday to offer encouragement. Others urged President Nixon to allow the veterans to continue their protest on the Mall.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., exercised a senatorial privilege and allowed demonstrators to eat in a Capitol restaurant during rush hours. And Washington Mayor Walter E. Washington offered city park sites and transportation to the protesters, as an alternative to the Mall campground.

Earthquake or Bomb Blast? Vela Will Tell, Experts Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a red brick building not far from the Pentagon, Bill Dean sits at the hub of an electronic network, waiting, listening, feeling for the earth to shake.

A rumble comes. Dynamite in an Arizona copper mine? Earthquake in California? Or did Red China explode another nuclear device at its underground test site near Lake Lop Nor?

Softspoken, bespectacled William C. Dean, 44, and 30 other Teledyne Corp. scientists and engineers are developing a system of seismometers and computers to identify underground disturbances faster and more accurately for the Defense Department.

Called Project VELA Uniform, the system is still in the research and development stage, but it can detect, locate and measure earth shocks within three to 10 seconds after their shock waves arrive, a process that can take anywhere from 5 to 15 minutes.

It can be programmed for instant analysis to help seismologists determine whether the shocks are natural shifting of rocks deep in the earth or clandestine nuclear tests in the heart of the Soviet Union.

The Pentagon has invested nearly $275 million in VELA since 1960 in an effort to devise a foolproof way to detect and identify underground nuclear explosions. Such ability could open the way toward removing a major obstacle to treaty banning underground tests.

Treaty in Effect

The United States has signed a treaty banning nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in space and on the ocean floor. But on-site inspection of underground facilities, which the United States wants and the Soviet Union won't abide, has blocked agreement on extending the ban.

Despite the speed with which VELA can detect underground shocks—"I don't think there is a system that can outrun it," said Dean—and despite electronic tentacles so sensitive they can monitor the earth's natural vibrations, the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency says on-site inspections are still necessary.

"We have research that looks very good, but we're just at the dawn of it," said a spokesman for the agency.

"There are a continuing number of 'unidentifiable seismic events. And there might always be a threshold in the intensity of these events below which we'll be unable to identify their specific causes."

One reason is uncertainty about VELA's long-distance ability to identify weak pulses of ground motion more peculiar to earthquakes than to explosions.

In identifying secret atomic tests, analysts first apply common sense. If shock waves come from deeper in the earth than man can bury a bomb, for instance, the analysts can safely assume the shock was caused by an earthquake.

If, on the other hand, a shock waves come from the Utah Desert south of the U. S. Mountains, the analysts can make a pretty good guess if they were caused by a Russian test.

Beyond this, the detection work gets technical.

The best way of telling earthquake from a bomb is identifying pulses of surface motion that radiate in long-period phases from the source of shock like ripples on a pond. Earthquakes cause more pulses than explosions.

Big Ones Easy

With VELA, said the Pentagon spokesman, "We can detect large nuclear explosions. But they get smaller and farther away, their signals sink into the background noise. The precision threshold of our ability is classified."

As a byproduct, VELA has become one of the best ways to study earthquakes.

vote and swamp the vote of his only opponent in the capital.

Duvalier did not wait for the full six years of the presidential term to make his move for permanency. In 1964 he announced the promulgation of a new constitution making him president for life.

Caused Sensation

Early this year Duvalier caused a sensation by declaring that he had decided to make Jean Claude his successor. The designation reportedly split the family in the snow-white presidential palace. Mrs. Duvalier—Simone Ovide—who wielded some power on her own, was reported enraged, believing that the move would place the life of her son in jeopardy. Haitian politics can be particularly bloody at times of changes of regime.

Duvalier, a mystic and an exponent of Voodoo, which Haitians inherited from their West African ancestors, appeared to many to have held his people in some contempt, not even bothering to speak Creole, the language of 90 per cent of them. He used Voodoo—which he called an authentic folk religion—to increase his hold on the people, who had been told by his agents that the spirits were all in league with him.

Bright Lights No Problem For Players--They're Blind

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — As the director of a school play, Betty Bryant says her stagehands don't mind working in the dark because—like the actors facing the bright footlights—they are blind.

In last year's play at the Arkansas School for the Blind, Miss Bryant said the only technical mistake was hers. In the darkness backstage, she plugged in the wrong light.

Miss Bryant says the students are much better working backstage because they are blind and are able to work more effectively than she in the dark.

Watching rehearsals for this year's play, it is difficult to realize that the actors, too, are blind or have very limited vision. They move across the stage with the ease and assurance that only comes with hours of practice.

In one scene, Miss Bryant hopped out of her chair, ran to the stage, struck a pose and the student-actress ran her fingers over the lines of her body to see how it was done.

Another time, Miss Bryant told an actress to point her finger for emphasis.

"How is that done Miss Bryant?" the student asked, and was shown.

"I'd rather talk about what they can do, rather than what they can't do," Miss Bryant said. "It's amazing."

Miss Bryant, 27, a combination kindergarten-speech teacher, said that her students do not learn their lines faster than sighted actors nor do they learn the technical portion of running a play any better. But, she said, they are more aware of their physical presence on the stage.

"They have to learn exactly how many steps to take and every square inch of the stage, and do it so well it looks like they can see," she said.

Miss Bryant also believes that a blind person can benefit from participating in a play.

"I feel it gives them the opportunity to act as a sighted person would act and react and a better insight into how things are conducted," she said.

"They are role-playing and it gives them confidence," she said.

Mayors Cite Main Troubles In Governing

Legislatures, City Bureaucracy Called
Source of Difficulty

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayors, faced with "myriads of problems" and money shortages, say the country's urban ills are the fault of sluggish state legislatures and antiquated local bureaucracies.

The mayors, members of the Legislative Action Committee of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, toured the city Wednesday to focus attention on urban problems.

They were asked to describe the toughest thing about being a mayor. Here are the responses: Kevin White, Democrat of Boston:

"I think the most frustrating thing for new mayors—and many of them are quitting after one term these days—is not being able to solve the problems of their cities.

"It's not enough to be elected anymore. We've got a better breed of mayor than ever before. But many walk into the job thinking they can shelve the politics of the crises because of the importance of the problems. They can't.

Civic Programs
"We've experimented with imaginative civic programs and the patient—the people and groups within the city—haven't responded. What today's mayor needs is courage to stand up to his constituency and money—a lot of it from Washington."

Henry W. Maier, Democrat of Milwaukee:

"We continuously have crises in resources and authority and if you're going to be a mayor with vision, you're going to have to carry the water on both shoulders.

"It's hard. You lack statutory powers for some action and there is an inability to move other governments at other times. Plus the property taxes need to be reconsidered. They were never built to carry the loads they do."

Mercy of Legislature
Harry G. Haskell, Republican of Wilmington, Del.:

"I'm at the mercy of the legislature—still and again and always. Our toughest problem is getting funds from the legislators, a group essentially dominated by suburban and rural representatives.

"Revenue—sharing is critical because it will give us the money to use in our way. After all, we know the problems best. A city doesn't go bankrupt with a bang—it just shrivels up. I'm afraid it is going to be the same old story in America: Until the situation gets really bad, no one will look for a solution."

Wesley C. Uhlman, Democrat of Seattle:

"The toughest thing is being held accountable by the public for the solutions to a myriad of problems—without the resources. We simply don't have the money to meet the problems. All we would like is to be able to chart our own destiny.

"The people sit-in at my office when welfare payments are cut off—they don't go to the governor or the county executive. We'd like to have the money to solve these problems."

Sam Massell Jr., Democrat of Atlanta:

"Every day is a new day. It's not enough to say I don't have the power or I lack the funds. If a problem affects the citizens of Atlanta, it concerns me.

"Atlanta has two problems—money and human relations. Give me enough money and I can reduce crime and eliminate traffic congestion. But no amount of money can improve human relations of man to man. It's more than just race."

John V. Lindsay, Republican of New York:

"The toughest thing is the budget and the bureaucracy. They're caught in the urban crunch. There seems to be no escape—they're always with you.

"In politics, no one wants to speak for the cities. The legislatures want to leave the problems of city hall on the steps of city hall."

The New Arab Union

There certainly is an implied threat to Israel in the announcement from Egypt, Syria and Libya that they have formed a Union of Arab Republics and have pledged no peace treaty and not to negotiate directly with Israel. But there must be a certain amount of skepticism since this sort of thing has happened before.

The United Arab Republic, joining Egypt and Syria, was formed with much fanfare about 13 years ago. It lasted just three years after the Syrian regime was overthrown by a more independent group which didn't want Egyptian President Nasser running things. Eight years ago Egypt, Syria and Iraq signed a pact similar to the latest one and that lasted only six months. Then in 1964 Egypt, Kuwait, Jordan and Syria announced the formation of an Arab Common Market. Nothing more was ever done about it.

The differences in types of government in the Arab world has been one of its major handicaps in presenting any sort of a united front to Israel. There are old shiekdoms with absolute rulers. There are far leftist regimes. In addition there are vast differences in standards of living both within nations and between them. Some are so oil rich they have plenty for all. Others continue to have vast numbers of the very hungry. There are fanatically religious Moslems and there are those looking westward.

But if the governments in Egypt, Syria and Libya are not overthrown, and at this moment they do not seem to be in imminent danger, this particular union may have more of a chance for survival. For one thing, President Nasser, who was so clearly ambitious to be leader of all the Arab world, is gone. No one of the three heads of state is noticeably outstanding or popular outside of his own country at this point. But the pact calls for one president and a federal government and the right of the military forces of all to cooperate. These all are bound to mean some strains. Already one prospective member, the Sudan, has withdrawn from talks although it was announced when some changes are made to fit that country's particular situation it plans to join.

If the Arabs ever united and had Soviet backing as far as equipment and military advice were concerned, the situation would become dangerous indeed. It is something Israel must take into account as it tries for bargains on withdrawals and guarantees of its borders.

About Coed Dormitories

There can be honest controversy over whether coed dormitories actually lend anything to the educational process as was argued in favor of such a project proposed at the University of Wisconsin. But to claim, as did Regent President Bernard Ziegler, that the proposal came from "pure and simple, a place to have sex" and that students "need coed dorms to get their sex" sadly says more about the older generation, or at least part of it, than it does about the younger.

Obviously there have been changing sex mores over the last few decades. Regulations are not as strict anywhere and the attitudes of society have changed. The explicit exposures in films and in books are almost shrugged off now by a lot of people. But the hypocrisy that characterized earlier generations, including even that of the Victorian age, has about disappeared. It might better be replaced by discretion than the flaunting of sex as sometimes seems to be the practice today, but it is fortunate for society that it is gone.

Many of the barriers at universities and colleges have fallen because students, faculty and administrators have pointed out that young people of the same age who go to work and get apartments are not under regulations that treat them as children. It is quite true that some students, away from home for the first time, have taken advantage of the relaxations — or have been taken advantage of by the unscrupulous.

But as Regent Mrs. Howard V. Sandin pointed out, young people learn their values at home. By the time they go to college they are pretty well established and if the home has provided healthy examples, honesty and a wholesome attitude toward sex as well as other things, the young person is likely to be able to weather even bad examples around him.

Those who see, as Mr. Ziegler apparently does, sex as a major detrimental influence in the lives of young people hardly seems to be in the right niche in a position of responsibility as far as students are concerned.

Arbor Day Survives

It is probably appropriate to suggest during Earth Week that the observance of the traditional Arbor Day on April 30 is scheduled by state proclamation here as elsewhere in the country, following a tradition established by an imaginative pioneer who settled on the plains of Nebraska long ago.

For those sentimentalists who remember the first awakenings to the beauties of the environment that were inspired by Arbor Day ceremonies at school during childhood, it is perhaps fitting to urge the continuation of the Arbor Day homage in the school system, the broader public involvement in the Earth Day observances notwithstanding.

In a real sense, J. Sterling Morton, the Nebraska farmer who conceived the idea of Arbor Day nearly a century ago (1972 will mark the centennial of his resolution approved by the board of agriculture of his state) can be credited with the beginnings of the stir of the public conscience on environmental questions.

The promotion of forestry on the treeless prairies of the new West 99 years ago was as imaginative a proposition as is the attack on the smothering mountains of trash that confound the environmentalists of today. The farsighted establishment of a public forestry program in this state earlier in this century was as constructive as some of the difficult and costly propositions for the abatement of environmental pollution now.

Indeed, in some respects the early

"conservationsists" who crusaded in a society that was impecunious by today's measure and who could not point to our engineering and technological skills were more courageous and daring than their counterparts of today, without intending disparagement of those who raise their voices in abundantly justified alarm about the staggering perils of earth degradation in our times.

Most of the "solution" today is assumed to be attainable only through the force of government and public law and the extraction of uncounted millions from the purses of the people through taxation for public program. We should not delude ourselves that these can be avoided, or that we ought to try to avoid them.

But the dream of the Nebraskan who bequeathed Arbor Day to us was of individual initiative and individual service in the cause of preserving our earth in the condition in which we found it at birth, as a minimum, and of improving it, as a reasonable command upon the inhabitant. Thus the old-fashioned Arbor Day has its value even for today, not as a competitor of the exigent idea of "Earth Week", but, as a demonstration and a reminder that not only government, but each of us, has a destined duty here. There is one world only. There will be no other. How will it be passed on to our descendants and their posterity? The individual ethic will provide the answer. Our day to day style of life, our awareness of the stark reality that the polluter, the wastrel, the destroyer of man's earthly endowment stares back from each mirror.

Looking Backward

Appleton Milliners Are Artistes

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 23, 1871.

"Those fashionable milliners at Neenah, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Haywood, have secured the services of Miss Van Evera, who has been connected with the most fashionable dress-making establishments of Toledo, and are now preparing to suit the most fashionable ladies in this line." — Appleton Times

We rather think our "fashionable" as well as our unfashionable ladies of Appleton will not need to accept the Times' invitation to go to Neenah, or any other place out of town, to "suit themselves," so long as Mrs. Pomeroy, Mrs. Barstow, Mrs. D. D. Griffith, and other skilled artistes in town continue to give satisfaction in this line of dress-making.

To read the Appleton Times' article one would think that our dress-makers were incompetent in their business!

Beware Chinese and Ping Pong; Foreign Policy Remains Suspect

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, Jr.

To judge from what we are willing to do for China in appreciation of China's willingness to play ping pong with us, one supposes we'd have cancelled the Normandy landings if Hitler had invited us to play a game of badminton. It is quite remarkable, the general elation. It is as though Golda Meir had suddenly eloped with Arafat, and a new state of Isarabia had been promulgated. What, we are being asked to think, was all the fuss about all these years?

Easy. We were victimized by The Cold War. The New York Times' instant historian Mr. Max Frankel ran a synoptic story called "Changing U.S. Attitude on China," wherein he recounts the difficulties American presidents have had in making time with China, all because of the hard, unyielding, irrational anti-Communism of the American public. For instance, "In 1962, opposition and caution inside the United

High School, William Kroeger Jr. was picked as salutatorian. Both were highest in their class in scholastic rank and other senior honor students were, in order of grade rank, LeRoy Manley, Jacqueline Scholl, Robert Quinn, Willard Laabs, Donald Armitage, Dorothy Gabriel, Clara Jack and Eugene Riedl.

Mrs. George McCauley was elected president of the Clintonville Woman's Club. Also elected were Mrs. William F. Luedke and Mrs. William Schauder, vice presidents; Mrs. Joseph Dahm, secretary, with Mrs. Donald Russell re-elected treasurer.

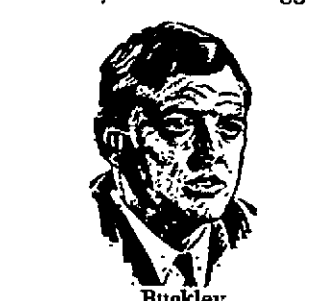

Maj. Walter H. Brummund, Appleton attorney, was to speak on the operation of the U.S. Army's court martial system to members of the Menasha Lions Club. Recently discharged from the Army Air Corps, Maj. Brummund had served as summary court and trial judge advocate during his years in service.

10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, April 20, 1961.

Members of the regional Horseless Carriage Club met at the home of member Milton Colden, route 3, Clintonville, to discuss plans for summer outings. John Hill, Rosendale, was president of the organization; Mrs. Clayton Fischer, Manitowoc, was secretary, and Mrs. Helen Spanagle, Sheboygan, was editor of the club publication.

A mock wedding was staged at the meeting of the North-eastern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan unit of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association. Taking part were Betty Aykens, Mary Pingel, Ginger Boelke, bride Judy Radtke and groom Philip Russel, Henry Yunk and James Mauer, all of Appleton, and Tom Turesdal, of Medina.

States government frustrated Mr. Kennedy's willingness to have Chester Bowles explore the idea of selling wheat to the needy Chinese." The needy Chinese, a nice heart-tugger.

And, "Also that year, the government and most Americans let their preconceptions lead them to accept India's charges of Chinese Communist 'aggression' in the outbreak of hostilities between the two countries, a view that sound scholarship has now challenged."

Such a sentence as that tells it all: the operative touch is the quotation marks surrounding the word "aggression." Sound scholarship, notwithstanding the interesting reservations of Mr. Neville Maxwell, shows that the Chinese amassed several divisions and moved into several thousand square miles of territory that was formerly India's. Now we are told it wasn't really aggression. Sound scholarship, you will have noticed if you keep an eye on the antics of the new revisionists, is engaged in making the United States the guilty party in the Cold War. That kind of thing always happens, in part because historians don't have quite enough to do, so they treat themselves to bizarre historical confessions, in which the Caligulas turn out to be the heroes, and the Florence Nightingales the villains. There is nothing to be done about the historians, but something should be done to bring back into focus the salient factors in the Asian situation. They are:

1) The Communist government of China stands condemned by the United Nations for having waged an aggressive war in Korea. All right, that was 20 years ago.

Since then, China's principal wars have been against her own people, and estimates vary widely, but I have not seen one that puts at less than ten million people slaughtered in the course of giving flesh to the thoughts of Chairman Mao.

2) On the international scene, China has dealt abruptly, erratically, and coldly with every major western power that extended recognition. What it is asked that the United States should do — exchange ambassadors — was offered by England 20 years ago. The Chinese have yet to receive an English ambassador.

Develops Weaponry
3) Meanwhile Red China has devoted herself to developing the weaponry necessary to play ping pong with hydrogen bombs. The relentless propaganda war continues unabated. If it is possible to find a Chinese under the age of 25 who believes that the United States Government is other than the sadistic agent of drooling American imperialists, that young man is an eccentric. China, under Mao and under Mao's designated successor, is devoted to international carnage as the road to socialism.

4) China has one great fear, and that is Japan. Japan's army is a paper tiger. Today, Tomorrow, Japan could mobilize, and emerge as the only tangible threat to China's overlordship of Asia, and other international ambitions. It is clearly the design of China to exert the maximum influence on Japanese politics in order to continue to imprison Japan under the terms of the post-war treaty that denies Japan the right to develop a nuclear potential. It is the further assumption of the Chinese that the best way to do this is to coo a little in our direction — not officially, but through sports, which is, for the Communists, a paramilitary activity. They have found us very easy targets. The victory over the American team at ping pong is no doubt a precursor to more important victories.

State Legislature Moves Cautiously With Houses Divided

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Judgment must be tentative. No one who has observed the legislature at close range over a long period is likely to make a final appraisal without more proof. But with such a caveat it is worth some public notice that the proceedings in the legislature thus far in the new term have been reasonably diligent.

Floor discussions and arguments have been refreshingly vigorous and candid and responsible, for the most part, always remembering that the constitutional framework does not intend or assure that the men and women chosen by the people with the lenient qualifications set out in law must be of superior intellect or educational attainment.

This reporter has tended lately to prefer day to day attendance in the Assembly, always called the "lower house" for no very good reasons. Perhaps the choice relates to the more comfortable and airy physical accommodations.

Political Pulse Obvious
Perhaps there is an instinctive feeling that the Assembly consisting of short term and younger representatives tends to be more characteristic of the political pulse of any chosen year, or that it presents a greater variety and number of personalities and thus a greater range of ideas and debate and exposition styles.

State Senate proceedings sometimes contrast as somewhat monotonous, undoubtedly because fewer members do more talking — not always with considerations of conservation of time and organization of remarks that the greater competition for recognition from the rostrum requires in the sister chamber.

These reports have often viewed with alarm a tendency for excessive reliance upon the caucus for the deliberation of bills and issues, including the fodder that composes most daily calendars and if deemed to require behind-doors review convicts legislators for sloth or ignorance, or both.

Change in Caucus

It is pleasant, therefore, to report conditionally that the leadership of both parties in both houses has seemingly resolved upon restraint in the use of the caucus and to confine it to legitimate strategical matters rather than to exposition that the rationale of representative government requires to be resolved in public proceedings in view of the constituency.

The caucuses are apparently scheduled for the convenience of the public as well as the legislators, which is a refreshing change. More proof is probably required, but it is evident that the floor leaders are trying, at the least, to avoid the great gaps in the daily proceedings that are costly, inconvenient and annoying for constituents who come to Madison to accommodate legitimate legislative concerns.

The new tenor of the legislature — if, indeed, that is what it is, and only a few more months of performance will show — may well result from the close division of political power in state government.

Republicans Careful

Democrats who rule the administration and one house of the legislature are perfectly aware that their position is a highly tentative one, and that the nature of the challenges and dilemmas that confront them make future responses of the voters uncertain, at best.

It is equally evident to the casual gallery eye that Republicans have contemplated their reverses of last November unblinkingly and that their posture in the legislature has been improved somewhat. The GOP reversal was bitter, but it has brought about a good deal of soul searching and reflection.

The parties are keenly aware of the uncertainties of the future.

Immediate problems and admittedly inadequate plans for their resolution within the Democratic administration contain evident hazards. But they are of such depth and complexity that Republicans cannot afford to bluff their way into a posture of easy alternatives.

Division of power in government is frustrating. Decisions come with great difficulty. But it is a good prescription for honesty and caution as the Capitol year will demonstrate.

Strictly Personal

Cockroach Example Of Darwin's Dictum

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If we accept Darwin's dictum of "survival of the fittest" in its most vulgar and simple-minded form, then we would have to apotheosize the cockroach as the supremely fittest of all living creatures, since it existed long before man and has the best chance of outlasting us.

The people with clearest insights are not necessarily those with the finest minds, but those who were least damaged by their environment while growing up.

What we most lack today is a sense of "community" — but we cannot restore it in the old, static, pre-electronic fashion of unchanging neighborhoods and towns; only an awareness of "world-community" is large and stable enough to cope with the dynamics of this post-atomic age.

Perhaps a third of our prison population consists of men who are vicious; another third, of men who are sub-normal mentally; and the final third of ordinary citizens who have made a mistake; and if we are going to have prisons (which are of dubious value at best), we should at least have three different kinds, each dealing quite differently with its particular kind of inmate.

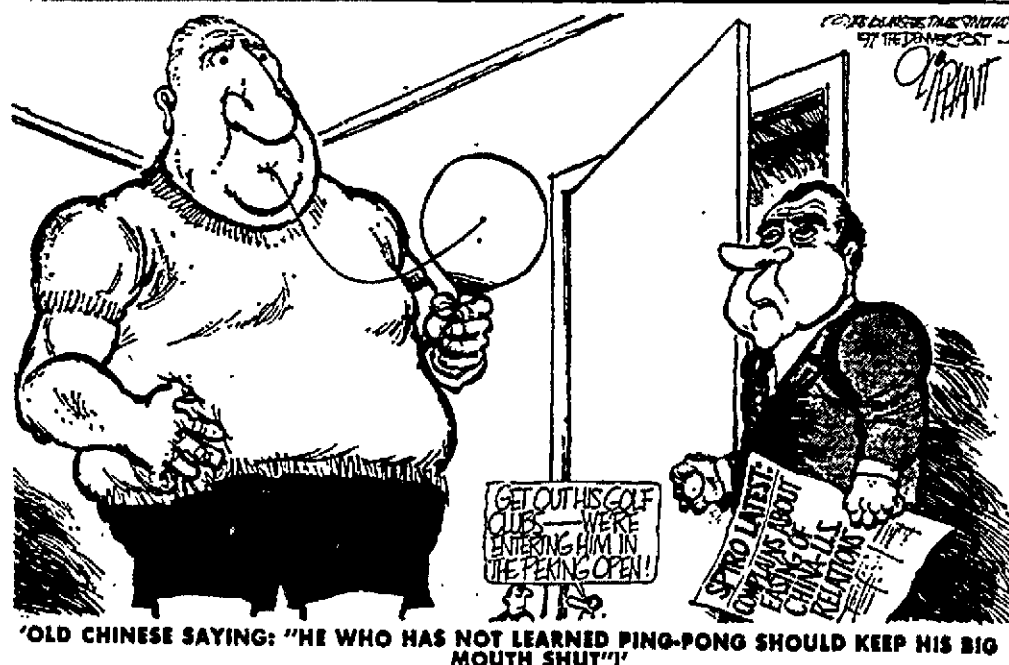

Hypocrisy is more to be despised than an outright falsehood; as Thoreau wryly put it: "One man lies in his words and gets a bad reputation; another in his manners and enjoys a good one."

A philanderer is motivated more by fear of his manhood than pride in his prowess: he is forever in flight, either toward a woman or away from one, and cannot bear the tension of a steady relationship, which is the only true test of a secure personality.

There are just as many self-made failures as successes, but they don't brag about it.

My daily mail bears out the melancholy truth of George Ade's remark a long time ago: "Only one person in a thousand understands the money question — and I run into him every day."

A "sophisticated" person is one who has discarded the provincialism of the provinces for the greater provincialism of the capital, without attaining the wisdom that equally repudiates all provincialism.

Pollution Abatement Costs Given by Firm

PORT EDWARDS, Wis. (AP) — A Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. official testified at a state Department of Natural Resources hearing Wednesday that it would cost the firm more than $800,000 a year to operate a $6.5-million pollution abatement system it plans to build.

But Jerome Luebke, the firm's engineering manager, said Nekoosa-Edwards would save $700,000 of pulp and chemicals and produce $15,000 worth of steam with the evaporator-burner system.

Luebke conceded in cross examination by a DNR attorney that the ultimate cost to the firm would also be reduced by savings in corporation income taxes. Taking that into account, he said, the cost would be $51,342 annually.

The new pollution abatement system would reduce the amount of biochemical oxygen demand (BOD) the firm puts on the Wisconsin River at its Port Edwards pulp plant from 66,340 pounds to 27,340 pounds.

The DNR has ordered Nekoosa-Edwards to reduce the mill's discharge to an average of 7,350 pounds a day, he said, and still additional equipment would be needed to meet this requirement.

The company has asked the department to pool the BOD allowances of its Port Edwards and Nekoosa mills in setting discharge limits.

4-Year-Old Child Killed by Truck

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A 4-year-old girl was killed in the alley behind her home Wednesday to send today's 1971 traffic fatality toll to 199, compared with 281 at this time last year.

Kimberly Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hart of Kenosha, died Wednesday when she darted into the side of a truck that was driving through the alley behind her home, and was crushed beneath it, authorities said.

Attorneys Concerned

Malpractice Insurance Costs Soar

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Lawyers like doctors are showing concern about the rise in the number of malpractice suits which has occasioned steady rises in the cost of insurance against malpractice judgments by the courts.

Philip Haberman, executive secretary of the State Bar of Wisconsin, reports in the current journal of the society that successful malpractice suits against attorneys by persons alleging errors and omissions in lawyers' services are increasing rapidly in numbers, and that the premiums levied upon lawyers seeking malpractice indemnity insurance have soared even more rapidly.

Haberman warned practitioners that the trend for higher costs for malpractice have been steady, and that by 1973 the typical judgment may well be nearly twice the average in 1965, if present trends continue.

The apprehensive report from the bar official echoed discussions during the last year by members of a special legislative study commission pondering the problems of physician shortage in Wisconsin and the means for relieving it.

The group heard testimony that one contributing factor was the earlier retirement of physicians who, in other times, might continue working in their senior

Cigarette Tax Hike Asked for Medical Schools

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The state cigarette tax would go up five cents a pack to finance a greatly expanded medical education program under a bill endorsed Wednesday by the state Senate's Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking Committee.

The University of Wisconsin Medical School would be expanded to 260 students a class, or a new medical school accommodating 100 students would be built at a new site under the proposal.

The annual freshman class at the Medical College of Wisconsin years on a reduced schedule, but now tend to decide against it because of the high cost of malpractice insurance contracts.

Haberman said that the malpractice claim rate against lawyers is now about 2.6 yearly per 100 lawyers insured, which is equal to a rise of 30 per cent in frequency during the last five years. He said the trend is sin also would be expanded to 160.

The funds raised also would go toward developing pilot programs to improve and extend health-care services throughout the state, and developing programs of continued education for physicians and other health-care professionals.

And the money would go toward providing loans to medical students of up to $1,500 a year, to be forgiven at the rate of $1,500 for each year the student works in Wisconsin after graduation.

The proposed tax would raise an estimated $29 million in the next biennium.

likely to continue, and to accelerate.

Haberman said the trend poses a dilemma for lawyers, for at a time when their risks are increasing, the availability of insurance is declining.

He said unless a form of group insurance can be worked out in the profession, such insurance may soon be available to them only at prohibitively high charges.

Man, 77, Becomes Father of Twins

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — George Jones' wife June gave birth to twin boys Wednesday, and the 77-year-old father said he's "fit as a fiddle, and it's marvelous being a dad."

Mrs. Jones is 31, has been married to George for seven years, and has a 3-year-old daughter by him. Jones also has five sons by his first wife, who died eight years ago, and nine grandchildren.

"I love kids," said the proud father, "but I won't have any more. Three are enough on an old age pension."

Pollution Enforcement Snub Irks Warren

HARTLAND, Wis. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert Warren today accused Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of playing politics with Wisconsin's anti-pollution program.

The Republican attorney general said he would appeal to the Legislature for a restoration of his requested funds.

Warren described Lucey's proposed cutback of more than $200,000 in the Justice Department's proposed budget as a "jolting setback" to his efforts to curb pollution.

In one of his strongest verbal attacks on the governor, Warren said he was "shocked and dismayed" that at no time during Lucey's message on pollution Tuesday did the governor mention the prosecution of polluters.

"He's saying millions for investigation and not one cent for enforcement," Warren said in an address prepared for delivery in the Arrowhead High School student body.

4 Charged With Operation Of Madison Abortion Clinic

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Madison police signed formal complaints late Wednesday against the operator of an abortion clinic and four of his associates, Dane County Dist. Atty. Gerald Nichol said today.

Nichol said the complaints charge Dr. Alfred Kennan, director of the Midwest Medical Clinic, with performing abortions on two young women without parental consent.

Employees named for aiding and abetting were Clara Haag of Verona; Mrs. Norma Krueger of Mount Horeb, and Mrs. Ann Bashore and Rita Smirnoff of Madison.

The district attorney said the five are scheduled to appear in Dane County Court today. He added that David Pappas, a

"I can only hope that in the rush of preparing his message," Warren said, that the governor "overlooked this as some kind of oversight. We in the Justice Department are faced with a perplexing situation. The number of abatement orders from the Department of Natural Resources are expected to almost triple in the coming years."

"And the governor of this state," Warren asserted, "for some reason won't give us the staff nor the funds to do an adequate job."

"I, for one, think that the issue of environment is too important for politics," Warren said. "Pollution control simply is not an issue that should be subjected to the whims and uncertainties of political budgeting."

"It is for these reasons," the attorney general said, "that I intend to take my case to the Legislature in a plea to our lawmakers for a full restoration of the funds I initially requested for our pollution program in the Justice Department."

Kennan is a former University of Wisconsin medical professor.

Atty. Gen. Robert Warren filed a petition in circuit court Wednesday for a restraining order to halt further abortions at the clinic.

The clinic has been closed since police raided it Monday.

Madison attorney, had agreed to represent the five.

Madison police detective Raymond Kurth signed the complaints under the state abortion law, Nichol said.

Spokesmen for several Madison groups seeking repeal of the state's abortion law reported they planned a demonstration in the city-county building prior to the scheduled arraignments.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Talented high school students will be allowed to attend classes at the Rutgers University campus here instead of completing their senior year in high school.

Under the high school scholars program announced Wednesday, students completing their junior year may attend classes on a full- or part-time basis at the university's Newark College of Arts and Sciences, which has an enrollment of about 4,500. The program begins this September.

Dr. Henry Blumenthal, dean of the college, said students who attend full-time will be eligible for high school equivalency certificates or diplomas upon completion of their freshman year at Rutgers.

Wants License Plates To Recognize Touristry

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A bill being introduced in the Wisconsin Assembly would change the state's license plate slogan from "America's Dairyland" to "Scenic Dairyland."

The change is being proposed by Rep. Harout O. Sanasarian,

Lipscomb's Successor Is Appointed

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Speaker Robert T. Huber announced the appointment of Paul E. Sicula Wednesday to replace Mark G. Lipscomb as chairman of the Assembly's influential judiciary committee.

Huber said he acted following Lipscomb's recent resignation of all his committee positions. Lipscomb, like Sicula a Milwaukee Democrat, was elected to a vacant Senate seat April 6. He sparked a controversy Tuesday by refusing to resign his Assembly seat in an announced attempt to dramatize the advantages of a one-house legislature.

Lipscomb did, however, resign his committee posts and ask that he be taken off the Assembly payroll.

Sicula was his co-chairman on the Judiciary Committee. Formal announcement of his appointment is expected to take place in the Assembly today.

Most Students at UW Claim They Oppose Violence

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—University of Wisconsin students overwhelmingly disapprove of violent forms of protest, according to a study released Wednesday.

The study, undertaken by a survey research class at the graduate level, found 90 percent of the school's students were opposed to breaking windows and vandalism as forms of protest.

But informational, picketing, petitions and protests marches win the endorsement of the 34,000 students on the Madison campus, according to the statistics.

Japan Puts Ban On DDT Sales

TOKYO (AP)—The Agriculture and Forestry Ministry today banned all sales of DDT in Japan beginning May 1. The ministry banned the manufacture of the pesticide in 1969.

The ministry said it is also banning retail sales of four other pesticides—Endrin, Dieldrin, Aldrin and BHC—to unauthorized persons.

tical conclusions reached by the survey.

One-third of the students in the random sample survey said the bombing last August 24 of the Sterling Hall on the campus changed their view toward political activism.

Kimberly Teachers Attend Meeting Friday—No School

KIMBERLY — There will be no classes Friday in the public schools when teachers attend the Northeastern Education Association's professional advancement committee meeting in Green Bay.

Committee members will prepare a series of programs to be made available to teachers and administrators in the fall.

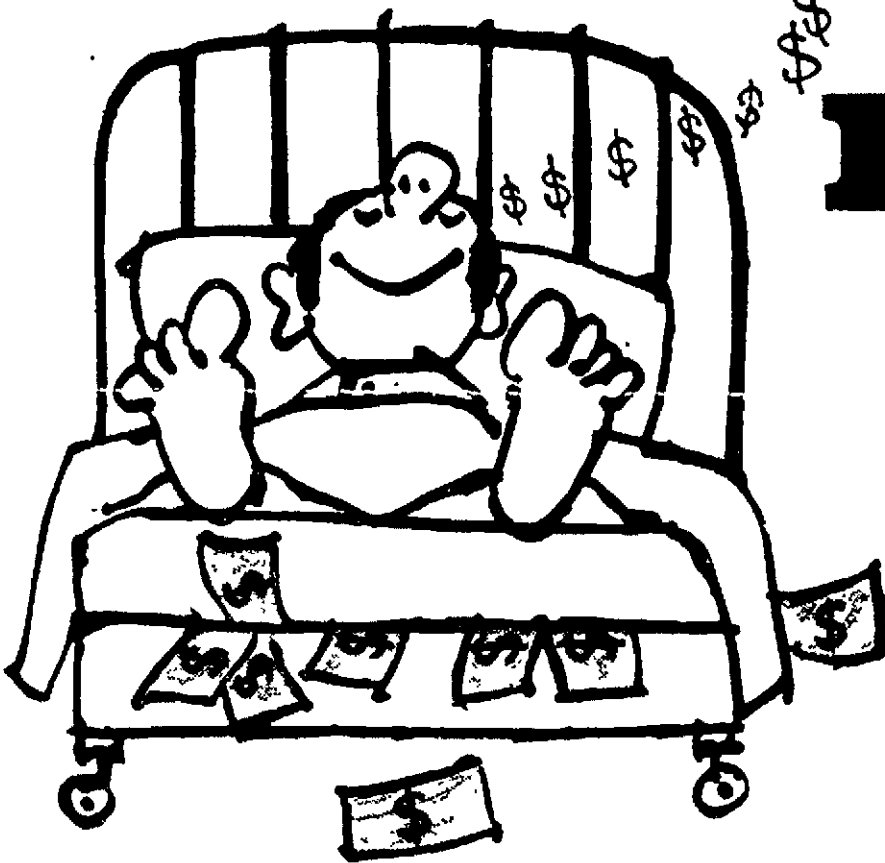

Mark French and Miss Renee LaChapelle, sixth grade teachers at Kimberly West Side Elementary School, will be speakers for a program entitled "The Team Approach to Individualization of Language Arts" at the meeting Friday.

They will explain how the school's language arts department is involved in an individualized contact approach to meet the needs of the students. To do this the teachers use team teaching, large and small group instruction and individual help and study.

French also will participate in "Individualized Instruction — to What Degree?" This will be a 30-minute discussion on the "how-to" in the using of individualized contracts, writing of behavioral objectives and contracts and use of contracts and record keeping in an individualized program.

Handicapped Have Special Requirements

This feature is one of a series bringing together questions on highway rules and regulations — how you can drive more safely, for yourself and others — as asked by Wisconsin motorists, together with authoritative answers as given by state officials of the agencies involved. It is presented as a public service to our readers.

Q Two of my friends are handicapped — one is deaf, and the other blind in one eye. Can they obtain drivers licenses?

A Yes, deaf people and those blind in one eye can obtain drivers licenses, if they meet the other qualifications for licensing. They generally are required to observe special precautions to make them more acutely aware of their surroundings as they drive.

Such drivers are required to equip their cars with an exterior rear-vision mirror on the driver's side as well as the interior mirror, to overcome at least partially the decreased awareness caused by the partial blindness or deafness.

Q Is it illegal to have liquor in an auto — opened or not opened? How about in campers or house trailers?

A One section of the motor vehicle code (346.93) is directed to this question. It makes it illegal to have any alcoholic beverages, sealed or opened, in an auto occupied by a passenger under 18 years old; the exceptions being when the driver is the spouse, parent, or guardian of the minor, or the driver is transporting the alcoholic beverage as part of his work for an organization engaged in the manufacture, distribution, sale, or other similar activity to do with liquor.

There is also a section of the criminal code, 947.045, which provides a $100 fine to whoever opens or drinks from a container of fermented malt beverage or intoxicating liquor in an auto.

These are the specific provisions of the law. They have been interpreted to mean that having an opened container of liquor or beer in the car has been opened to be drunk out of, and that the convenient presence of the container puts the driver under the provisions of the law, that is, drinking same.

If the container is in a cooler chest or in the refrigerator or cabinet of a camper or house trailer, the interpretation is that it is not convenient to the driver or passengers in the auto, and he is not guilty of any criminal appearance when the case is called in court. If the person has a valid Wisconsin operator's or chauffeur's license, no cash deposit shall be required.

The actual fine is imposed by the court having jurisdiction, if the person is declared guilty at the hearing. If a cash deposit has been posted and no appearance is made at the scheduled time and place, this deposit may be applied on the fine by the court.

Q I have heard of a number of people who have been sent to a traffic safety school by a judge. Just what is a traffic safety school?

A These schools are authorized by law for the purpose of encouraging obedience to traffic laws and promoting safe driving. In most cases they are operated by schools of vocational, technical and adult education.

Anyone can go to them, but they are specifically designed for persons who have violated traffic laws. If the judge thinks going to school could benefit the person to attend school "in addition to or in lieu of other penalties provided by law."

The theory is that this program is more helpful and productive than just having a violator pay his fine, take his punishment, and then resume driving with the same unsatisfactory attitudes that he may have had prior to court appearance — or even a more embittered attitude in some cases.

The judge plays the key role in determining which of the violators who appear before him could benefit from the session in traffic safety school; and a number of judges have reported that few who have been given the opportunity to attend school appear in court again.

Legislature Accused Of Being Antifarmer

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Representatives who do not Wisconsin legislature was accused Tuesday of being antifarmer because of bills that would increase the financial burden on the state's agriculture industry.

The accusation came from Rep. Lawrence J. Day, D-Eland, during debate on a measure that would require one member of the Natural Resources Board to be a farmer.

Day told the Assembly that a great deal of feeling against the Department of Natural Resources exists in rural areas.

Other legislators argued that requiring a farmer be a member of the board would make no more sense than requiring an educator or any other type of person to be represented on the board.

The bill was tabled during an uneventful evening session which was hatched by representatives so they could have an outing Wednesday to attend a Milwaukee Brewers baseball game and still not fall too far behind in legislative business.

After the debate, Day said representatives who do not "see the other side by living on a farm" are all to prone to heap added costs and responsibilities on farmers.

He cited a proposal to ban ordinary nitrate fertilizer so the chemical could not fall into militant hands and be used as an explosive.

Such fertilizer was used in last August's bombing of Sterling Hall at the University of Wisconsin, killing a young physicist.

Processing the chemical to reduce its value as an explosive would add to the cost of fertilizer.

"Go after the kooks, not the fertilizer," Day admonished the Assembly.

The representative, who operates a farm, said he was "happy to see" Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's proposal to modify tax systems to preserve farm land that would otherwise fall victim to urban sprawl.

The proposal was part of Lucey's environmental legislation package presented to the legislature Tuesday.

2.5 Million Get VD in Each Year

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Our 2,500,000 cases of venereal disease a year average out, on the basis of total population, to roughly one case per 100 population. (If one in a hundred got, say, pneumonia every year, what an uproar there'd be.)
But this one-in-a-hundred is somewhat misleading. Most of these cases are in the age bracket of 15 to 30 years. Let's not blink at the facts.

Venereal disease has taken on epidemic proportions, invading polite society, schools, some of the most respectable places. Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Venereal Disease: How To Avoid It; How To Cure It," also tells how everyone can help stop the VD epidemic. For a copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Post-Crescent enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Thosteson

er forms of contraception. Girls no longer fear pregnancy as they used to (but I note that illegitimacy has not disappeared!).
Yet none of these new contraceptive methods offers one particle of protection against VD. Can it be that that simple fact just hasn't been emphasized?
Years ago the condom ("rubber" or "safe") was about the only contraceptive available. I can remember smorts of derision among my contemporaries when they read the legend on the package, "For prevention of disease only."
The condoms were used to prevent pregnancy! The legend was printed to comply with laws against birth control.
Yet here's the wry turn of facts. The condom DOES prevent disease by avoiding that vital "skin-to-skin" contact which lets VD germs pass from person to person. A check of druggists shows that some folks now are realizing it — and in enough numbers to result in an increase in sales of the simple

That means that among young people of "VD age," about one in 25 contracts VD each year.
However, it is less prevalent in many rural states, much more prevalent in the big, crowded cities, and it is calculated that in some of the densest metropolitan areas, the frequency of VD is as high as one young person out of four.

I don't think there's much doubt that "sexual freedom" and "liberation" and such catchwords have a lot to do with it.

Perhaps later age for marriage has something to do with it, too — but I can't see how this explains the rise of venereal disease among the kids aged 13, 14 and 15. Do you?

No "Permissiveness" has gone too far. Maybe just saying "don't" to the younger generation no longer cuts any ice, but isn't it time that the young (or even older) "swingers" begin to learn they can't play around, switching partners with impunity?

Has Its Price
In a word, it's the promiscuous ones who get — and give — venereal diseases.

Now don't jump to the conclusion that I'm condemning "sexual liberation." But like everything else, it has its price — risk of pregnancy, guilt, feelings, upset emotions, and so on.

What I am saying is that, if young folks (and older ones, too) are going to insist on sex when they want it, they should at least heed the consequences. Sex is one thing; indiscriminate sex — switching from partner to partner is another. For with every new partner there is a risk of finding VD in from one in fifty to one in four.

Part of the picture is the availability of "the pill," the "loops" and "spirals," and other forms of contraception.
In passing, the advice has been given that if the male, after sexual contact, urinates immediately, he can "wash away" some of the germs he may have accumulated. Try it if you want to — but some authorities on the subject tell me that, in plain words, it often doesn't do much good. Don't rely on it! (More on this in my booklet; "Venereal Disease: How To Avoid It; How To Cure It.")
The same applies to women using a douche. It is highly unreliable as a means of preventing pregnancy — and as to

Collector Sells Pioneer Town

MONROE, Utah (AP) — Wilford Murdock who has been saving pioneer artifacts for posterity during the past quarter century has collected a whole town.

His collection includes nearly a dozen old buildings—among them two country stores, the first post office of nearby Richfield, Monroe's first jail, an earl's saloon, and a complete hay harness and shoe shop.

Murdock has sold the 6,500 artifacts to a group of businessmen who plan to transport the collection—buildings and all—more than 100 miles to Springdale and build a pioneer village as a tourist attraction.

Table Tennis Group Makes Nixon Member

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has accepted honorary membership in the U.S. Table Tennis Association, the group Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is reported as saying fell into a Chinese propaganda trap.

Without announcement, Nixon accepted the membership Wednesday from Graham B. Steenhoven, president of association and leader of the U.S. table tennis team that toured mainland China last week.

It appears significant that Nixon called Steenhoven to the White House following Agnew's privately expressed concerns about the team's China visit.

Agnew told Republican governors in a private session Monday he was concerned by over-emphasis on the Chinese tour by the 15 American athletes, and about the way the tour received press coverage in the United States.

Adverse Effect
He was said to have feared an adverse effect on the Nationalist Chinese government based on Taiwan.

Nixon presumably could only be less than happy about Agnew's reported statements, never denied. They followed the announcement of a five-point Nixon plan aimed at renewal of at least limited trade and travel between the U.S. and China.

All forthcoming participants in inner-council arguments that preceded Nixon's decision agree that the vice president took a skeptical stance at the time.

While most Cabinet members have kept silent, Secretary of State William P. Rogers made a rare for-direct-quotation statement Tuesday that, in effect, he could hardly be happier about the recent developments.

"Excellent" Rating
Moreover, the State Department placed an "excellent" rating on reporting from China by the three American newsmen permitted to travel there with the U.S. table tennis team.

Agnew, by contrast, has been quoted as questioning the reporting job done by the American newsmen.

Chinese table tennis players have an oral invitation from Steenhoven to make a return visit here. They have accepted in turn.

After meeting with Nixon for about an hour Wednesday, Steenhoven said a more formal written invitation will be extended almost immediately.

He said that if the Chinese want a private session with Nixon, "then I'll ask the President to accommodate them."

The White House wouldn't say publicly whether Nixon would receive the prospective visitors, but knowledgeable sources said he would be delighted to do so.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said visas for the Chinese, if they want to come, will be expedited.

Elimination of Disease Near, Physician Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A prize-winning scientist says researchers are on the threshold of engineering human cells "so none of the things we now call disease need exist."

Dr. Robert A. Good, 49, a professor of pediatrics at the University of Minnesota and 1970 winner of the Albert Lasker prize for medicine, said Wednesday that the conclusion is based on newly evolving methods of cell manipulation.

The research has involved patients whose lymphatic systems had inborn defects for disease resistance. Good said in an interview.

"We can actually grow genetically determined diseases in a test tube," he said. "This means we will be able to study and manipulate them in standardized experiments all over the world."

Research with Dr. B. H. Park at the University of Minnesota has underscored the importance of "stem cells" in the human bone marrow for engineering cellular lymphoid cells which provide changes.

man with resistance to disease. Good said.

A transplant of bone-marrow stems cells at Minneapolis nearly three years ago shows that it is possible to engineer mosaic blood cells to overcome genetic deficiency in the disease-fighting mechanisms, Good said.

A baby boy, lacking the cells that carry immunity to disease and infection, was given bone marrow cells from his sister and now is completely healthy, Good reported.

"We have analyzed the blood cells of the boy recently and find them to have his characteristics as well as his sister's, which means genetic materials really mesh," he said.

He said the boy's type-A blood changed into the type-O blood of his sister.

"Our followup studies now have proved that the boy is immunologically perfectly normal," Good said.

"We have both the biological and chemical means," he said, bone marrow for engineering cellular lymphoid cells which provide changes.

White House Conference Concludes

Youth Wants War to End

BY KEN HOSKINS and
J. HUNTER HOLLOWAY
ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — Delegates to the White House Conference on Youth, winding up four days of lively discussion, have called for an end to U.S. military involvement in Vietnam and for the legalization of marijuana.

With about half of the conference's original 1,400 youth and adult delegates casting paper ballots, the vote Wednesday night for an immediate halt of U.S. military action in Southeast Asia and a complete withdrawal by year's end was 450 to 155 with 37 undecided.

A resolution supporting President Nixon's plan of Vietnamization was defeated 339 to 246 with 37 undecided.

Task Force
The withdrawal proposal was drawn up by a majority task force which studied the Southeast Asia conflict. The defeated Vietnamization proposal was submitted as a minority resolution.

The marijuana resolution passed 403 to 156, with 33 undecided. It included a recommendation that the criminal records of persons already, jailed under existing marijuana laws be wiped clean.

Eight other conference task forces worked in such areas as the environment, race, legal rights and justice, and values, ethics and culture. All task force recommendations will be given to the President in about two months.

Aside from the foreign relations minority resolution, all proposals put to a full conference vote were approved by wide margins.

Martha Vents Her Unhappiness About 9 Old Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martha Mitchell, wife of the attorney-general, says she is furious with the Supreme Court's action upholding busing of school children, the Washington Evening Star reports.

"Nine old men should not overturn the tradition of America," Mrs. Mitchell said Wednesday in a telephone call to Star columnist Betty Beall. "Things like this should be put to a vote of the American people."

She said her first thought on reading of the decision was "We should abolish the Supreme Court."

The Star quoted Mrs. Mitchell as saying busing is not a question of integration. She said she had had "much mail from black people in this country who said they didn't want busing any more than anyone else."

"It is not a question of color now because the black people who are working and trying to achieve something in this country should be able to move into a good section and have their children go to that school instead of being bused to the other side of the city," she said.

the immediate resignation of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, endorsement of the 26th Amendment to extend the vote to 18-year-olds, and national recognition of full legal rights for 18-year-olds.

Stephen Hess, national chairman of the conference who celebrated his 38th birthday Tuesday, was under pressure throughout the session. Many delegates felt he was exercising influence for the White House.

At a news conference Wednesday night, Hess said he believed "this was the fairest conference on a demographic basis that has ever been held."

No Influence
"I had no influence ... in caucuses ... delegations ... or meetings," he said.

Concerning the selection of youth delegates, ranging in age from 14 through 25, he said, "We were looking for people who had done things. They may have been activists—liberal or conservative."

"I believe we've had a real conference because of that," he said, adding that the conference had selected adult delegates as "people we thought represented real power."

Hess said the recommendations that came out of the conference were "not just for the President, but for America."

"I consider it a success," he said. "We've done many things we set out to do. It was a remarkable meeting."

Environment Agency Surprised by Pollution Crisis in Alabama

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency says it would have used emergency powers against the Birmingham, Ala., pollution crisis if only it had known of it sooner.

"If we have known about it earlier we'd have had a Justice Department lawyer down there so fast it would make you head swim," said an EPA official who declined to be identified.

The federal agency has no routine authority over pollution and no widespread monitoring service of its own; but the 1970 Clean Air Act authorized it to seek antipollution court orders when human health is in danger and local and state authorities fail to abate the pollution.

Citizen Group
Birmingham was blanketed by dense air pollution for five days before a citizens group known as GASP notified EPA Tuesday and asked it to invoke its emergency authority, the spokesman said.

He said local authorities had approached the situation by asking area residents to stay out of downtown Birmingham.

EPA asked the six industrial firms it viewed as the major source of pollution to cut down their emissions. By late Wednesday, only one had responded with assurances of a reduction, and a seventh firm which had not been contacted volunteered on its own to cut back.

The firms contacted were U.S. Steel; Universal Atlas Cement, a division of U.S. Steel; Lone Star Cement; Alpha Portland Cement; U. S. Pipe Co.; and Woodward Iron Corp.

Woodward Iron and the firm of Alabama By-Products promised to reduce their polluting emissions.

Rainfall Helped
The pollution crisis in Birmingham ended Wednesday with a rainfall that helped clear the air.

Even under normal conditions, Birmingham's air is considered far from clean.

Normal pollution levels in Birmingham range between 200 and 300 micrograms of dust per cubic meter of air, the EPA spokesman said, a level which proposed federal air standards would permit only one day a year.

During the height of the five-day crisis, the dust level reached 607, he said.

EPA doctors reported such levels would aggravate the symptoms of persons with respiratory ailments and "even persons with normal health are likely to experience transient discomfort in the form of eye irritation, cough and burning in the throat and chest."

City-Police High-Rise Plan Drafted

A proposal for a high-rise city hall and police station has been thrown into the hopper of ideas for solving Appleton Police Department and city office space needs.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) explained that his notion "is offered primarily as a discussion piece for study."

His resolution was referred Wednesday night to the City Council's Public Safety Committee and the Board of Public Works. Meanwhile, the council approved a board recommendation to take offers from architects to examine the Appleton Vocational School as a potential police headquarters building when it is vacated in 1972.

The architects have until May 15 to submit offers in letter form to the city clerk, including qualifications, other pertinent information and a cost estimate for the feasibility study.

City Hall Site

Kalata suggested that the present City Hall site could accommodate a high-rise structure housing both police and city offices.

He urged whether federal funds such as law enforcement aids might be and suggested considering the proposal in relation to other major projects and weighing it against the city's financial position.

He also proposed offering the question to the voters in a referendum, possibly an unnecessary provision since state law requires a referendum on city hall building plans if they require issuing bonds.

In other business during Wednesday's first council meeting of the new term, aldermen:

—Approved refunds or cancellations of real estate and personal property taxes and special assessments totaling $7,259 on 16 protests, denied protests by 11 other property owners and wrote off 10 personal property tax bills totaling $793 as uncollectible.

Future Construction

—Ordered Capitol Drive between Meade Street and Ballard Road; forming the northerly edge of Langedyke Park, placed on the official map to reserve the 80-foot right-of-way for future construction.

—Conducted public hearings on streets, sidewalk and utility construction projects this summer and awarded a $552,300 contract for concrete paving and related work to Wiesler Construction, Inc., of Appleton.

Action on a number of recommendations from the now defunct Legislative Committee was thwarted by Ald. Glenn Thompson (13th) who referred the committee's entire report to the Finance Committee after Mayor George Buckley raised questions about some of the recommendations.

Ald. Donald Day (19th) by similar referrals prevented council consideration of plans commission recommendations to rezone 1.8 acres in his ward for apartment buildings and to extend Glendale Avenue on the official street map westward from the city limits into the Town of Grand Chute.

Six Maple Trees to add a little shade to the playground and beautify the grounds were planted in honor of Earth Week at Woodlawn School. Taking care of the spade work are Brian Pritz and Tim Van Camp. (Post-Crescent Photo)

12 Long Pending Traffic Charges Are Dismissed

Misdemeanor and traffic charges have been dismissed for 12 of 20 defendants who had their cases pending in Outagamie County Court for one to six years.

Reserve Judge Charles Dillett of Shawano this week held pre-trial conferences on 28 cases, most of them involving traffic arrests by Appleton police.

At the request of Judge Raymond P. Dohr, the cases had been removed from his court by E. Harold Hallows, chief justice of the State Supreme Court, and Edwin M. Wilkie, administrative director for the high court. Dohr cited "congestion" in his court in asking that the cases be transferred.

Cases against eight of the 28 persons scheduled for pre-trial conferences had been pending less than a year, according to records in the clerk of courts office.

Richard Hamilton, assistant city attorney, and Capt. Marvin Green of the police department's traffic bureau, represented the city at the pre-trial conferences.

Sunday Loses One Hour for More Daylight

You will lose an hour's sleep this weekend whether you want to or not.

Daylight saving time starts. At 2 a.m. Sunday Wisconsin residents, as well as millions of Americans, will be setting their clocks ahead one hour.

People confused about the change can recall that in spring the hour hand springs forward one hour and in the fall the hour hand falls back.

Wisconsin no longer faces the strong opposition which farmers made about DST juggling their milk schedules but some other states still aren't finding things smooth.

Four states — Indiana, Arizona, Hawaii and Michigan — won't observe the time change, and 12 other states — Alaska, Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas and Indiana — are split by time zone boundaries so local moves to DST will create a patchwork observance in many areas.

In Indiana, Evansville and 11 other communities in Central Standard Time will observe CST until Apr. 25 but they may not be able to switch to DST as planned because the State Legislature this year outlawed it. Evansville fears economic damage since it will be two hours behind some eastern U. S. cities and the mayor indicated he may call for the switch anyway.

Some Dismissals

Hamilton asked for dismissals in some of the cases because the defendants have moved out of the area or the arresting officers are no longer on the police department.

The oldest case before Dillett was that of John Tarr, 222 N. Outagamie St., whom city police ticketed for speeding Sept. 20, 1965. The case is set for trial May 4.

The other 19 defendants, their addresses at the time they were cited, the nature and date of the charges and the dispositions made by Dillett at the pre-trial conferences are as follows:

Wendy Barlow, 178 River Drive, Nov. 22, 1967, permitting an unauthorized person to drive and carrying intoxicants in a car with minors. A $25 fine was levied following a no contest plea to the driving charge. The second charge was dismissed.

Moved Out of State

Robert C. Crosson, 1027 W. College Ave., disorderly conduct, Sept. 29, 1968. Hamilton asked for dismissal because Crosson no longer lives in the state.

Mrs. Robert Crosson, same Appleton address, Aug. 26, 1968, violation of temporary permit, two automatic signal violations and hit and run. The charges were dismissed because, like her husband, she no longer lives in Wisconsin.

Thomas G. Fassbender, 313 Forest St., Neenah, illegal turn, Feb. 25, 1967. A motion for dismissal because of an unreasonable delay was denied and the case was set for trial May 4.

Ralph Gertsch, 1833 N. Mason St., speeding, Sept. 7, 1969.

Kimberly Budget In Early Trouble

KIMBERLY — Newly elected Village President Eugene Schelfhout expressed hope that board members would try to live within the 1971 budget, in his statements to the new village board Tuesday night.

Noting that 71 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls this month, Schelfhout forecast more interest, concern and involvement in village government, which would lead to a better community for all.

"As elected officials, we have a responsibility to work together as a team. Mr. Fulcer, (retiring president Alvin Fulcer), left us one big asset — pride in our community. With this asset of pride, I feel we have the resources, personnel and the knowledge to do more than just a good job," said Schelfhout.

"In starting this new term of government, we as board members must realize that our income is going to be less because of economic conditions. Our second largest source of income, the state income tax refund, will be less because of shorter work weeks and substantial unemployment.

Our expense for snow removal is already over our budget, so a definite concern for our future budget is a real necessity. The 1971 snow removal budget of $10,000 is $5,400 in the red with the months of November and December yet to go. Out 1971 budget will have to be limited to only necessary purchases," he continued.

Schelfhout announced that beginning May 1, he would be available in his office at the municipal complex from 9 a.m. to noon each Saturday. "I hope this will create a good communication between the people of our community and their elected officials," he said.

Three experienced trustees were named to head special committees and Schelfhout outlined special areas to be of

FBI Changes Mind, Moves to Green Bay

The Appleton Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was closed today for what was termed "security reasons."

Edward J. Hays, FBI special agent in charge of Wisconsin, said today that the office is being consolidated with that in Green Bay. Hays last week denied a report that the local office was being closed. "We change our minds sometimes," he said today.

Office equipment was being moved out of the FBI quarters in the second floor of the Post Office this morning.

Although Hays declined to elaborate on what security reasons were involved in the decision to close the office, the FBI tightened security nationwide after 1,000 documents were stolen from its office in Media, Pa., last month.

A number of small resident agent offices around the county have been closed since the theft.

The three FBI agents stationed here occupied small quarters that were easily accessible at any time from the Post Office lobby. Quarters in the federal building-post office in Green Bay are more secure. The two-man FBI office there is on the second floor.

Hays said the three agents who had been assigned to the Appleton office will continue to cover the same 11-county area of eastern Wisconsin.

The agents will be allowed to continue living in the Appleton area.

Hays could not say how long the FBI office has been in the Post Office here. Postmaster Francis Sumnicht said the Post Office will use the former FBI offices.

Two Wilson Junior High Girls, Julie Ziegler, left, and Tina Marschall, put into practice what they had heard preached in the last few years—they cleaned up the school grounds during their free time to make the school's appearance neat and clean for Earth Week. It took 16 hours to gather 14 bags of junk, which included such unlikely items as car mufflers. (Post-Crescent Photo)

About 500 persons, mostly students, took part in an antiwar march and rally in Oshkosh Wednesday evening. Above, the protesters leave the OSU campus and head for the downtown area. At left, a resident watches the procession pass his home. Police said the event was orderly and there were no incidents. Organizers of the protest said that chilly weather caused the turnout to be smaller than expected, but that it was a success nevertheless. (Post-Crescent Photos by Robert Tews)

Supervisors Decide Pollution at Plamann Park Isn't Serious Yet

grade student talk on the problems of pollution Wednesday afternoon, but a few minutes later decided that the pollution problem at Plamann Park was not serious enough to warrant spending $1,500. This would be to find the cost of connecting the park to either the Town of Grand Chute or Appleton's sewerage systems.

Linda Selig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Selig Jr., 1207 E. Francis St., junior division winner of the soil conservation district oratorical contest, gave her winning talk on pollution to the board and drew loud applause.

Supervisors tabled the request by a 26-17 vote for the engineering study on the $9,000, to setting up a small to 8 p.m. Friday and from 10 grounds that they already had treatment plant at a cost of a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday.

All the information they needed about $300,000.

One of the possibilities submitted to the public property and parks committee by the commission was connecting all of the park facilities to a main sewer line which would run to either the Grand Chute sanitary district or to Appleton.

The committee wanted the system does not work at the present time. In addition, there have been problems with septic systems in the surrounding residential area not working properly because of the area's soil conditions.

and suggested three possibilities, ranging from a temporary display at the First National Bank in Appleton from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday.

Costs will be 10 cents.

Board Delays Indigent Defense Plan

A proposal to hire two attorneys to act as defense counsels for indigent defendants in Outagamie County was laid over for 30 days by the county board Wednesday to await a formal year the county paid out slightly more than $25,000 in such fees.

Ponath, who did not hide his opinion on the resolution was by a narrow 20-19 vote which came after acting Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath and County Judge Urban Van Susteren differed on whether such legislation was legal.

The proposal called for the judges to name two attorneys to act as a defense panel for indigents. Each attorney would be paid $500 per month by the county.

At present, attorneys for indigents are appointed on a rotating basis and charge the court judge in which they has consulted with an assistant attorney general's office on the resolution. "It is illegal for the county to hire attorneys," he said, "but it is the county's legal for the judges to appoint them." He noted that whatever method is used, the county still pays the costs.

Supv. Paul Huseby, Appleton, "In effect you have ruled that the judges have endorsed an illegal resolution," Supv. Huseby said his committee has consulted with an assistant attorney general's office on the resolution. "It is illegal for the county to hire attorneys," he said, "but it is the county's legal for the judges to appoint them." He noted that whatever method is used, the county still pays the costs.

Advisory Panel At Lawrence

Group Oversees
Professor's Project
On London Stage

Five members of the advisory panel which is overseeing the London Stage Data Bank project of Lawrence English Professor Ben Schneider will be in Appleton, today and Friday.

They include George Winchester Stone, director of the library and dean of the graduate school at New York University; Arthur Scouten, professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania; Vernon Sternberg, editor of the Southern Illinois Press; John Robinson, professor of English and associate dean of the University of Nebraska, and the noted British state historian, Cecil Price, professor of English at the University of Swansea in Wales.

Stone and Scouten are among the editors of the monumental "London Stage 1660-1800," which is an exhaustive calendar of plays and other stage activities during that period. Sternberg's Southern Illinois University press was publisher of the 11-volume work, and Robinson prepared a bibliography of its contents.

Schneider for the past year has been involved in preparing the material in the "London Stage" for storage in an information bank at the Institute of Paper Chemistry's Computer Center. Within three years, Schneider intends to have the entire 8,000 pages of the reference work on computer tape, making it easily accessible to scholars not only interested in theatre of the period, but to researchers in many other fields, such as economics, sociology and history.

On Friday, the advisory panel will tour the theatrical facilities at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center, and will meet with drama students and faculty members. The advisory panel will hold a formal meeting at 11 a.m. Friday, and will continue its meeting in the afternoon after a luncheon with university administrators, at which the panel will discuss the future of the information bank at Lawrence.

Nordon Firm In Quarters On Lynndale

Nordon Partitions, Inc., manufacturer of demountable wall partitions, has moved into its new office and production quarters at 1005 S. Lynndale Drive, Norbert A. Gaerthofner, president, has announced.

Nordon, started nine years ago by Gaerthofner and owned solely by him, had been located at 3040 W. Wisconsin Ave. for seven years and the Town of Menasha for two.

He said the new facilities are doubling floor space for an expansion program which will result in marketing Nordon products throughout Wisconsin instead of just northeastern Wisconsin. Two new salesmen, Robert Long, Milwaukee, and James Collier, Appleton, have been hired, doubling the sales staff, and Donald Moder, Appleton, has been put in charge of the installation division. Gaerthofner said that his firm has been appointed the state distributor for the Keene Corp., Partition Division. Nordon also produces and distributes wire mesh partitions, toilet compartments, and folding walls and doors.

Fox Valley Planning Officials In Washington to Push River

Two Fox Valley planning officials are in Washington today and Friday for a special meeting concerning a new form of grant program which would be used for a total cleanup of the Fox River.

Federal Environmental Protection Agency officials invited valley representatives, along with 20 to 25 other regional state and federal officials from throughout the nation to discuss the new grant program called the multi-media grants.

Kaukauna Mayor Gilbert Anderson, chairman of the Fox Valley Council of Governments, and Eugene Franchetti, COG executive director, flew to the capital for the two-day information-discussion session. Anderson and other officials were invited to the meeting several weeks ago. Anderson had written the letter to EPA last August which has put the Fox River in strong contention for a multi-million dollar federal demonstration project.

A recent EPA letter to Anderson indicated the purpose of the meeting was to "solicit the views of the participants" as to how the EPA should use its overall grant authority. The EPA is a relatively new federal agency charged with coordinating all pollution-fighting in the nation.

The multi-media grant is the EPA proposal for resolving abatement of pollution which in the past was severely hampered by the need to acquire grants from an array of agencies before a total basin pollution problem could be solved.

Under the multi-media program, a region would be given grants from several different federal agencies through an EPA-coordinated effort.

The demonstration project is one of the factors which led to the COG officials being invited. That project, which has received political and technical support from throughout the valley and from high state representatives in Washington, would concentrate all federal grants needed to bring up the quality of Fox water.

There have been indications that EPA is giving strong consideration to the Fox which apparently fits the unofficial EPA demonstration grant criteria rather closely. EPA's interest is to prove that a heavily polluted river can be cleaned up through management practices.

Outagamie Law Day Activities Scheduled

Courthouse tours, school quizzes, speeches, a testimonial dinner and an appearance by State Supreme Court Justice Horace W. Wilkie are among the planned highlights of Law Day observance in Outagamie County.

Although Law Day is observed nationally on May 1, local events already have begun, according to Appleton attorney Cody Spitt, who is in charge of arrangements for the Outagamie County Bar Association.

"Channel Change Through Law and Reason" is the theme of Law Day 1971. Wilkie will deliver two addresses next Wednesday. The first will be at a noon luncheon sponsored by Appleton Kiwanis clubs which have issued invitations to several other local service clubs. Wilkie's second appearance will be at a dinner at the Darboy Club at 6:30 p.m. The Kimberly Kiwanis Club will be in charge of that event. Members of Kaukauna, Little Chute and Seymour Kiwanis clubs have been invited.

Testimonial Buffet On the same evening, four Appleton women's clubs will be host to a testimonial buffet dinner at Kahler's Inn Towne for Mrs. Walter Brummond of Appleton, president of the National Lawyers' Wives. The dinner will start at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Brummond will talk on "Law Is a Kind of Love." Wilkie's wife will be an honored guest at the dinner arranged by the Appleton Toastmistress Club, Altrusa Club of Appleton, Y Auxiliary and the Fox Cities Chapter of the National Secretaries Association. An invitation has been extended to all other women's clubs in the area.

Tickets for the buffet dinner are available at the YMCA, First National Bank, Valley National Bank and Unmuth's Drug Store. Courthouse tours have been arranged for more than 600 adults and students from Outagamie County communities. Lawyers' wives will serve as guides for the tours which will start at 8:45 a.m. on seven days starting Friday. Persons making the tour also will witness court actions in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Law Quiz "The Rule of Law Quiz," published by the American Bar Association, has been distributed to senior and junior high schools in Appleton, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Seymour, Shiocton and to the Fox Valley Technical Institute.

Fifteen-minute film strips dealing with law already have been shown in junior high schools in a number of communities. The program will continue into early May.

Attorneys are scheduled to discuss law at a number of schools and before several adult groups.

Other Law Day events in Outagamie County include billboard advertisements, distribution of pamphlets to banks and savings and loan institutions, one-minute radio spots on two stations, newspaper advertising, library displays in Appleton and Kaukauna and the signing of Law Day proclamations by local government leaders. Appleton Mayor George Buckley already has proclaimed Law Day in Appleton.

Budget Woes Are Aired At Kimberly

Elmer Vander Velden was named chairman of the administrative committee with Bernard Vanden Boogard and Russell Zillges. "I would like the administrative committee to finalize the recreation and pool plans for the summer and also recommend the necessary personnel for the operation of this program," said Schellhout.

Donald Valentyne was named maintenance committee chairman assisted by John Gaffney and James Bergeron. "I would like the maintenance committee to establish an adequate sewer maintenance program and correct any problems they may find in our system and to create a pump pump ordinance for the entire community. I feel this will help solve the flooding of our basements, but more important is to keep storm water out of our sanitary system. As the costs go up to treat our waste water, first chlorination and then phosphorous removal, it is not economical to treat storm water," said the new president.

Gaffney was named to head the personnel committee, working with Bergeron and Vanden Boogard. "I would like the personnel committee to meet with the village employees union bargaining committee at an early date in order to resolve labor agreements by budget time," said Schellhout. Zillges was named to represent the village on the open space committee of the Fox Valley Council of Governments working on park and recreational planning programs.

Board Votes Against Park Sewage Study

contended. He claimed the county would in effect be paying for a study for private landowners.

"We've got the same problems in Darboy," DeBruin said. He said if they went ahead with the Plamann Park project they might be obligated to do the same for Darboy.

Supv. Norman Austin, Town of Oneida, rejected DeBruin's contention. "There's no comparison," he said. "The park is county-owned land."

Kaukauna Supv. R. Clayton VanDyke said the county should just concern itself with the park. "I don't give a darn about the residential area around it," he said.

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, argued for the study to prevent future debate on what should be done. "If we make a decision without the study, the same people who object now will try to second guess us."

A second parks committee request fared better, however. The board approved petitioning the state to change its snowmobile law to permit counties to administer funds collected from snowmobile registration fees for establishment and maintenance of trails.

Under the present law, the Department of Natural Resources administers the fees and their use is limited to county or state-owned lands.

In other action, the board authorized, by a 23-18 vote, the airport committee to make application for federal and state funds to update the airport master plan.

If the application is approved, the county's share would be one-sixth of the estimated $20,000 cost.

Airport Committee Chairman Richard Jahnke, noting the present master plan is more than 10 years old, said "no business can operate with a 10-year-old plan."

Fire Damages Apartment

Appleton Firemen Quickly Control Southside Blaze

A fire that started in a bedroom closet did extensive damage this morning to the S. Memorial Drive apartment of an Appleton couple.

Fire fighters battled the stubborn, smoky fire at the Craig Smith home, 207 1/2 S. Memorial Drive. Smith, 26, his wife, Cathy, 25, and their 16-month-old son, Brendon, escaped to safety after Mrs. Smith called the fire department.

The family occupied the second floor of the two-story frame dwelling owned by Norman Pleier 707 S. Ridge Lane.

Fire department officials said fire damage was confined to the second floor bedroom in the front of the home, although there was extensive smoke damage throughout the rest of the second floor.

Cut Through Roof Fire fighters had to cut through the roof of the home with a chain saw when fire ate through the bedroom ceiling into the attic, in order to hose down flames with water.

Fire officials, who brought the blaze under control in about 5 minutes, said the fire started in the closet of the second floor bedroom. They were still seeking its cause this morning.

Mrs. Smith told authorities the family was eating breakfast when she smelled smoke. She traced it to the rear of the closet. Clothing in the closet was destroyed.

Pleier, who said the building is insured, made no estimate damage this morning.

It's called the JOINER — and it's a brand new fabric bonding aid, that allows you to join two fabrics together with a steam iron. What's more, it resists dry cleaning and laundering. The JOINER is a special resin film that melts between two fabrics, creating a bond that is stronger than the fabric. Besides, the JOINER allows for changes. Just reheat and bond with your steam iron, take apart, reposition and then rebond. Available in tape (thin, 1.29; medium, 1.49; thick, 1.69) and sheet form (thin, 1.19; medium, 1.39; thick, 1.59; assortment, 1.39), it comes with complete instructions. Sheriff's Request for Added Manpower Requires Study CHILTON — A request for additional manpower for the Calumet County Sheriff's Department was returned to the committee on protection of persons and property for further study.

The decision this week came from the board of supervisors who heard a report from Michael Kloeppel, chairman of the committee, on the additional needs for the sheriff's department.

Kloeppel, who spoke for the sheriff who was unable to be present, said the sheriff believes another man is needed because of the increasing case load. "Many times the sheriff is at the end of the county on a complaint and is called away on another so the first complaint is pushed aside until later. Sheriff Ted Pagel feels this is an inefficient way to run his department," Kloeppel said.

Howard Schuchti, supervisor, said the matter should be turned over to the committee for further study.

Salaries Approved
Salaries of highway department personnel were approved as negotiated and will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1971. The highway commissioner will receive $795; highway accountant and office supervisor, $601.

Halbach also told the board about the operation of Fond du Lac's landfill located outside the city. The refuse is covered daily and no serious problems have materialized since its operation a year ago, he said, adding that the biggest problem is disposing of large trees because they take up so much room.

The board also approved the adoption of rules governing itself. Two changes in the appointing of standing committees were recommended. They include having seven members on the planning and zoning board with three from the county board and four members at large. The park commission also will be appointed in the same way, with three board members and four members at large. Previously the planning and zoning committees consisted of five members at large to act with the county board chairman. The park commission was made up of six members at large to act with the board chairman.

Lawrence Honors Students

The election of 14 Lawrence University seniors, including one from Appleton, to the university chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was announced at the Honors Day Convocation today at the Memorial Chapel.

The Appleton youth is Paul Ziemer, son of Rev. and Mrs. L. Ziemer, 1300 S. Telulah St.

Others elected are Scott Alexander, Racine; Norah Barrett, Cedarburg; Mary Brauer, Wauwatosa; Janet Brelig, Wauwatosa; Thomas Howe, Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Janice Juraska, Milwaukee; James Kehoe, Wheaton, Ill.; Christine Oravec, Oshkosh; Teresa Smith, Oshkosh; Karl Strelnick, Wauwatosa; Patricia Suhreck, Sheboygan Falls; David Vaughan, Griffith, Ind., and Michael Vogt, Milwaukee.

Citizenship Awards
Citizenship awards to five Lawrence students also were presented at the convocation.

William Baer, former community council president and a junior from Milwaukee, was awarded the Otto Pearce Fairfield Prize in absentia. Baer is studying at the university's London Study Center this term. The prize is given to a junior showing great promise of distinguished service in the promotion of human progress.

Among others cited for citizenship at the convocation were three black students, including two members of the Lawrence Viking football team. Elijah Brewer, a two-time All-Conference defensive back for the Vikes, received the Martin Luther King Jr. Award, given to "that black senior who mirrors the excellence for which Dr. King is remembered, his vision, his scholarship, his dedication to mankind."

Clarence Rixter, also from Chicago and a Viking halfback for two years, won the Harriet Tubman Prize, presented to a black junior "who in his years at Lawrence has worked to improve the lot of his fellow human beings."

President's Prize
Awarded the President's Prize, given to "that black junior who has shown great academic promise at Lawrence," was Dorothy Moore, Birmingham, Ala.

Theodore Tollefson, of Dixon, Ill., was named recipient of the Warren Hurst Stevens Prize, awarded to a junior man "distinguished for high scholarship and for useful activity in university affairs."

The member of the Lawrence staff honored at the convocation was Mrs. Emily Bayer, 201 N. Story St., Appleton, who has been a member of the Memorial Union staff since 1951. She was awarded the Mrs. H. K. Babcock Award, voted by Lawrence students "in appreciation of generous cooperation with undergraduate enterprises."

Also at the convocation, honorary degrees were presented to Kiowa Indiana and Pulitzer Prize winning novelist N. Scott Momaday, convocation speaker and to his father, the noted Indian artist Al Momaday. The novelist, a professor of comparative literature at the University of California-Berkeley, was awarded a doctor of letters degree. His father was awarded a doctor of fine arts degree.

The Clothier's Almanac

it's the baseball season again

Even if you never go to the ball park, April can be the cruelest season without enjoyable clothes. Clothes like wind breaker jackets, spring-weight sweaters, sporty knits and permanent press slacks that turn an outfit into a co-ordinated ensemble. Spring is the season of renaissance, the re-birth of greenery, the return of the robin. How can you enjoy it fully without fully enjoyable wearables?

Why Did We Toss Out Half The Dow-Jones Industrials?

Of the 30 blue-chip stocks that make up the Dow-Jones Industrial Average, we recommend only 14. We tossed out the other 16 because of a study just completed by Wright Investors' Service which shows that from 1961 to 1970, 14 of the companies in the Dow-Jones Industrial Average far and away out-performed the others where it counts - in price appreciation (63% to -3%), earnings (75% to 32%), and dividend growth (79% to 18%).

Past performance is no guarantee of future profitability, but you should judge these results for yourself. We'll send you the 69-page Wright Study so you can see for yourself.

Incidentally, we're the only investment firm in the Valley with Wright Investors' Service.

Spring Fling 1971 Ready for Rehearsal

BY CAROL HANSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

All eyes were on Max Shoaf, a professional musical director from New York, as he gestured to emphasize a point about the production that will be the Junior Woman's Club's Spring Fling 1971.

"We want to keep the show off the floor," he said as he described the lead and chorus positions that would have to be filled before the show could be brought to a successful conclusion May 7 and 8 at Appleton High School-West.

There will be a carrousel scene to open the show with eight couples taking part as well as a tall and a short comic duo who will take the spotlight while sets are being changed. There are a number of beautiful songs for soloists as well as a chorus line, Max bantered as he described the show in some detail to those present.

After his pep talk, most of those at the Pre-Fling Party Tuesday evening at the Conway Hotel had put their names on the dotted line. Now they will be involved in a couple of weeks of concentrated rehearsal before staging the production for the public.

Tickets are available from any member of the Junior Woman's Club through Monday. After that date, tickets will be sold from a booth in the lobby at the YMCA — also the site for the rehearsals.

General chairman is Mrs. David Weiland with Mrs. Robert Gordon, talent chairman.

Proceeds of the show will be used to assist service organizations.

Four of the Club-Appointed chairmen who will assist with the production, study the photographs taken of the same show when it was done in another city. From left are Mrs. Carl Kosiorek, scenery; Mrs. Robert Swan, tickets; Mrs. Ronald Steindorf, costumes, and Mrs. William Steinberg, surprise bar. At left, Mrs. David Weiland, general chairman, and Mrs. Robert Gordon, talent chairman, study the musical score for the show.

Mr. and Mrs. John Turney sang several duets in the Jeanette MacDonald-Nelson Eddy style as they entertained Pre-Fling partygoers.

Purpose of the Party, was, of course, to heighten interest among people in the community as well as to get club members to sign up for the cast. At left, Jerry West puts his "John Henry" to the list and will soon be involved in some phase of the ambitious production.

Max Shoaf, New York, arrived on the Appleton scene just a few hours before the Pre-Fling Party Tuesday evening at the Conway Hotel. As he described the show that he will direct, he used gestures and great facial expressions to tell those gathered what a tremendous show this year's Spring Fling will be.

Home Economists Will Gather for Convention

MILWAUKEE — More than 300 home economists from throughout Wisconsin will gather Friday and Saturday at Holiday Inn Central for the annual spring convention of the Wisconsin Home Economics Association. June L. Luett of S. F. Shattuck High School, Neenah, is Northeast district chairman.

Featured speakers at the session include the deputy director of the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor; a representative of the National Bureau of Standards, and a furniture designer.

Mrs. Mary Hilton of the Labor Department will discuss, "What's the Score on Women in Economics." Bruce Rothrock, manager of a U.S. Metric Study investigating advantages and disadvantages to the consumer of metrication, the consumer's knowledge of the metric system and consumer attitudes toward the use of the metric system, will speak about what the system would mean to consumers.

Milo Baughman, head of the Department of Environmental Design at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, has been cited for his one-man revolution against the long established rules for modern design. His topic is, "Human Values in Living as Related to Interior Design."

Registrations hours are from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Friday with a social hour at 6 p.m. and a buffet dinner at 7 p.m.

Registration Saturday will be from 7:30 to 9 a.m. Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. will conclude the program.

History of Silver

Silver seems to date back to the dawn of man's civilization. It is thought to have been used extensively first in Egypt. The early Egyptians considered silver a more valuable metal than gold because silver was not as easily attainable in its natural state.

Women's Libs Blast Establishment

By SANDRA SHACKLEFORD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — "We come in the hope that we've made trouble as a Trojan Horse," said Gloria Steinem Tuesday night as she manned the Oshkosh State University Albee Hall podium with co-Women's Liberationist, lawyer and actress, Florynce Kennedy.

Miss Steinem, one of the contributing editors of New York magazine and political activist, harraged the Oshkosh-based university's hiring policies for women instructors, its lack of birth control information and abortion referral to students, the absence of free Child Care Centers on campus for everyone from instructors to employees, and urged students to demand a survey of their texts and instructors.

"I hope this campus will be visited by HEW (the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) to investigate the status of women instructors," she stated, adding that there were inequities in both their pay and their roles as educators.

Threatens Action

The well known journalist, who declined to speak at last week's Washington meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors because they treated the Women's Liberation movement "like entertainment and not like a serious problem," stated that she was ashamed of the attitude of the press.

Summarizing the news media's "bra burning concept" which received play during demonstrations at last year's "Miss America Meat Market Contest," she said "No bra was burned because we couldn't get a fire permit. "We've always been law abiding but this is going to stop."

"All women are niggers and we have to face that," stated Miss Steinem in reference to subjugated groups.

"Black people lose their lives. Women lose their identity." Her contention was that everyone who is not white and male is oppressed.

We are all used for cheap labor and must rise up and share the wealth in a human way." As it stands today, she related, "everything men don't want to do is considered feminine."

As for Miss Steinem's concept of the Church and the new feminism, she branded the Church as "the greatest myth maker of all time. As the position of priesthood goes up, so does the oppression of women. Priests have always taught that women are unclean."

Indications of change are occurring, she said and added that Jewish women are re-writing prayers and "radical nuns are taking the pulpits from the priests."

Two generalizations of Women's Lib proponents Miss Steinem said are that "A liberated woman goes to bed with anyone, or she is totally against sex."

Barbs at Chauvinists

Pointing barbs at "male chauvinists" who are worried as to the sexual outcome of the female revolution, Miss Steinem stated, "A lot of middle-aged men are so used to submission that they don't know what cooperation is."

Saying that "Love exists between equals... who respect each other equally," she added, "The masculine mystique — the jock concept — is demeaning to men."

"Who is the liberation movement for," she asked, answering her own question: "For women in prison who get stiffer penalties than men and if they are pregnant, their child is taken away; it's for women who are addicts of which there are four times more than men; it's for women who are considered beautiful; it's for women who are considered ugly and dis-pursed; it's for women over 50 who have a nervous breakdown when they see the first wrinkle; it's for professional women who don't receive equal pay for equal work."

Concluding on an optimistic note, the dynamic Miss Steinem stated that she hoped that through the movement people will "look for the human potential inside."

Florynce Kennedy Speaks

"If ours is the movement then we're terribly constipated and I don't know the laxative," Florynce Kennedy's blast of apathy on the part of students, women and black men for not becoming more involved in the mainstream of political activity.

"I want to say to the women on campus that with the purge of 1969 (the demonstration by black students on the OSU campus), it is very important for women to understand niggerization."

"Here at Oshkosh you have seen what the administration did. One of the reasons for apathy on campus after the purge is that people don't dig being ripped off."

"If you plan to move on this campus," said fiery Miss Kennedy, "get ready for the purge."

Sporting a "Free Angela" button, Miss Kennedy commented on the inequities she sees as a lawyer between the Calley trial and the treatment of political activists. She urged the students to "contrast the way the Calley coddlers treated the incarceration of Angela Davis and Bobby Seale."

She, too, blasted the news media for hiding the raiding of abortion clinics while providing continued exposure for the "jock-o-pratic sports figures."

Labels Mayor Daley

Labeling Chicago's mayor, Richard Daley, the "super pig-o-prat" she turned again to the political front.

"Too many good people who have run for the legislature have not been supported by the radical-revolutionary element."

She criticized the campus nursing program saying that it was "driving them women into marriage" when they could aspire to become doctors.

TV Hostess Talks Marriage

Virginia Graham, TV's sunniest hostess, is half of one of the longer-running domestic partnerships in show business.

Wed 36 years to the man she calls "My Harry," the 58-year-old star of the highly successful daytime talk show freely offers guests on and off her show down-to-earth advice on wedlock — the kind of advice that mothers never give.

Although Virginia has positive opinions on any topic, she can expound her views on marriage at the drop of a cue card. And does.

Her indefatigable preoccupation with the subject is apparent on nearly all of her shows. At some point her 25 million viewers can expect to hear her ask a guest such questions as what he would do if he caught his mate cheating, or why young people start living together without getting married first.

Wedlock Not All Bliss
Virginia admits that the state of wedlock is certainly not all bliss, and not the answer for everyone.

"For the emotionally immature, adult delinquent, it is anathema, even though some may marry three or four times," she says in an article in the May issue of Good Housekeeping. As a practicing pragmatist, she believes firmly in a good fair fight to clear the domestic air — and divorce, if all else fails.

The greatest marriages I know are those where both husband and wife openly admire each other," Virginia says. "And it doesn't do any good to tell somebody else how wonderful and beautiful your wife is if you don't tell her too," Virginia advises the guests who appear on her show.

"Harry tells me I'm beautiful and I tell him he's handsome and both of us have a good day."

Virginia's Advice

Virginia, who greets guests regally in Dior dresses and dazzling diamonds, talks openly, warmly, wittily. Lusty laughter and skill at double entendre are her trademarks. She bestows her five-pronged plan for conjugal harmony on anyone who seems in need, including daughter Lynn.

These are some Virginiaisms:

"Be sure you take a long hard look at your fiance's family before you say yes. Basically, he will be what they are now."

"Make certain either that you genuinely do like what he likes, or that whatever it is won't be hard to live with for the rest of your life."

"One of the worst mistakes that can be made in a marriage is for one partner to try to change the other. If he was a mama's boy during the courtship, you should have recognized that and either not married him at all, or made up your mind to be his mama's girl."

"If both husband and wife are breadwinners, make sure that you set up a one pot household. There must be no 'my money, your money.' Just 'our money.'"

"Everyone should have what Virginia calls her Chinese Room retreat. Go in there and quietly make a mental market list of what you're doing right and what you're doing wrong," she advises.

Last of all, Virginia tells her guests "Try to look ahead to some future day when someone will ask you how you've managed to stay happily married for so long. I hope you'll be able to say as I do. 'It's easy. I married my best friend.'"

Man's Leisure Means End of Wife's

BY ERMA BOMBECK

There's a new militant group of women emerging in the suburbs who are protesting the four-day leisure week for men.

Our Child Study and Wine Tasters group had its leader, Carrie Nationwide, speak to us last Wednesday. Mrs. Nationwide is the wife of a retired punch press operator who predicted in the next 20 years men will invade women's domain like relatives at a rich man's funeral.

"Before Elwood retired from the plant," said Mrs. Nationwide, "I visualized lazy mornings when we would sleep to midday sun, relaxed lunches on the patio, and leisure evenings when we would fall asleep while reading the Townsend plan.

"This is not man's plan," she warned pointing her finger skyward. "Elwood sets his alarm every morning for 5:30 at which time we rush through breakfast and clean out the medicine chest, scrub the chrome around the faucets with a toothbrush and polish up the fireplace grate. Grabbing a quick lunch, we clean the dust out of the registers, level the refrigerator, gather up trading stamps from all over the house and paste them neatly into books and vacuum the bed springs. In short, ladies Elwood became a housewife."

"I do not mean to frighten you," she continued, "But man's leisure means the end of yours. No more impromptu coffee breaks. No more 30 minute phone calls. No more 'As the World Turns.' (groans from the audience.)"

"With a leisureee, you do everything together. He will not play golf without you. He will not get a haircut by himself. He will not even go to the compost by himself."

"Industry has been pushing the four-day week and I say to you, 'Arise, Sisters.' The time has come for you to stand firm. When you look at him asleep in his chair at night from exhaustion and begin to weaken, just remember, this man will someday over-water my cactus. When he promises to slip off and go fishing the first three days he gets, tell yourself, 'I have better things to do than feed coffee grounds to his meal worms.' And when he comes into your kitchen and feigns ignorance at where to find your tea bags, just remember, this man will someday organize your kitchen and put your tea bags in a canister marked 'Tea.'"

I thought a lot about what Mrs. Nationwide said. Maybe we are threatened by men's leisure. All I know is when my husband said he was taking this Saturday off, I turned on him and said, "You pinch my petunias just once, Buster, and you're out!"

Two Wisconsin Students Named By Glamour

NEW YORK — Miss Mary Brody, a senior at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and Miss Julia Huges, a junior at Ripon College have been selected as two of seven honorable mention winners in Glamour Magazine's 1971 Ten Outstanding College Girls Contest. Mary is the daughter of James Brody, Milwaukee and Julia is the daughter of Mrs. Pearltha Huges, Washington, D. C.

Glamour's Ten Outstanding College Girls Contest is an annual search for college girls who represent the best of each year's changing campus life. Every college that enrolls women was invited to select one girl on the basis of her leadership in some worthwhile activity either on campus or in the community — politics, the arts, social services, the sciences, special honors, fellowship or field work programs and her commitment to doing something about her world. The ten winners and seven honorable mention winners were selected by a panel of Glamour editors.

Record High Sales

Retail food sales for 1970 hit a record high. Figures are expected to reach $114 billion, an 8 percent increase over '69. Inflation and a one percent increase in U.S. population are factors which experts say contributed to record.

Named to the presidency was Mrs. James Weyenberg with Mrs. Mark Biese, vice president; Mrs. George Bodde, secretary and Mrs. Donald Vaubel, treasurer.

Mrs. Glenn Monroe was named chairman of the installation banquet which will be held at the Elks' Club. May 17 is the deadline for reservations.

Mrs. Robert Van De Leygraaf, project chairman for the year, reported that fund raising events benefitted three local institutions. Mrs. Ted Van Dyke announced that changes would be made in the baby sitting clinic for the coming year as a result of a study by the Mmes. James McFadden, David Hartjes, Glenn Monroe, DuWayne Gilchrist and James Weyenberg.

Named to audit the books by club president Mrs. James McFadden were Mrs. Stuart Black and Mrs. Harold Feller.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. Otto Rieth who told of stamp collecting and the knowledge which she acquired through her hobby. Among the variety which she showed to the group were Russian stamps, produced by a country which issues more stamps than any other nation. Mrs. Rieth noted that Russia has never issued a Christmas stamp.

Program chairman was Mrs. George Bodde. Mrs. Gerald Nyles headed the social committee assisted by the Mmes. Ralph Doering, Joseph Bongers, Robert Van De Leygraaf, Harold Mischler, James Van Der Burgt, Harvey Coenen and Bernard Miller.

Delivery of Girl Scout cookies will continue in the area through April 30. Those who failed to order them from Cadette and Senior Scouts may obtain them Saturday and Sunday at southside locations of Sentry Food, Kitz and Pfeil Hardware and St. Joseph Church.

A seven percent increase in sales due to the double-pack box was recorded over last year enabling more girls to receive camperships to day and established camps this summer.

Funds earned by troops will be used for camping, trips, program supplies and other troop activities.

A dinner for family and friends was held at 6 p.m. at Maple Hills Golf Club.

In the match, Marshall Miles elected to lead the diamond queen and his side dropped points. At the other table, Aces Jim Jacoby and Bobby Wolff defeated a North-South contract for four spades by two tricks. If Miles had led the spade ace and then led a heart for a spade ruff, the loss would have been cut to only 50 points.

Answer No. 2. Pass loses 570 points. Four spades breaks even. If the opponents persist to five clubs, you can double to collect a 500-point penalty. The entire hand:

In the match, Ace Bobby Goldman decided to pass four clubs and defeated this one trick. At the other table, Marshall Miles and Charles Kalme, both of Los Angeles, reached the spade game for a gain of 570 points.

The jack of diamonds opening lead and a diamond ruff gave the defense much hope. However, when South ruffed East's club ace, the defense was finished.

To Your Good Health

Yes, Nerves Can Upset Your Breathing

BY G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some time my heart beats real fast and after I exhale I can't get my breath. This lasts a few seconds and then I am all right, but it scares me. It happens mostly when I go to bed, sometimes three or four attacks a night.

Dr. Thosteson

My doctor checked me over and said I was in good health. He thought it was my nerves. He gave me some pills that made me sleepy. I took them for a week and had no more trouble with my breathing.

Is it possible nerves could cause this? I have had this trouble for 10 years. I am now 26 and have two children. — Mrs. D.H.

Yes, it is possible for nerves to affect breathing, heart rate, and other physical functions. Normally, we breathe automatically, without thinking about it. However, anxiety and tension sometimes lead to breathing too much (called hyperventilation).

This leads to too low a level of carbon dioxide in the blood (the dioxide level ordinarily governs our breathing rate).

The person who is hyperventilating becomes conscious of his breathing, tries to breathe too much, and makes his own trouble even worse. He gets his lungs full, has the idea that he needs to breathe more, yet can't. So he develops a feeling of not being able to catch his breath when actually he has more than he needs.

This sort of thing is not particularly unusual in colleges, especially around examination time. One simple measure, which works except in extreme cases, is to have the patient hold a paper bag to his face, and breathe in and out — he thus re-inhales some of the carbon dioxide that he has exhaled, his dioxide level goes back to or toward normal, and presently he feels better.

Along with this, he needs to be reassured that nothing terrible is happening to him, and that he should relax and let nature take its course. Sometimes medication may be used to help him relax.

This helped you, your letter says. The pills, rather than actually "making" you sleepy, probably merely helped you relax.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Your column has caused me much worry; to be exact, my writing that after vasectomy there is a small possibility of sperm being found even a year later.

Our doctor who performed this, understanding that we would never want it undone in the future because of our age, told us we would be perfectly safe after 10 ejaculations, but still I remember what you have written. We should prefer not to have a laboratory sperm count. Could you possibly reassure us? — Mrs. B.H.

The probability is that you will be perfectly safe, as your doctor said. But the fact remains that the only way to be certain is to have a subsequent sperm count. Occasionally, for of not being able to catch his breath when actually he has more than he needs.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have diabetes. Please tell me what my blood sugar should be an hour after I eat breakfast. — Mrs. L.E.

A level of 180 milligrams or less would be acceptable — but a more significant reading would be two or three hours after a meal. That gives a better index of how well you are utilizing sugar, and whether an adjustment in diet or medication is advisable. Further, if your fasting sugar level is high, adjustment to lower it will bring down the after-breakfast level.

Your Problems

Lovely Thought Turns Sour

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been brooding about this for weeks and decided to write to you to get it off my chest. My letter might also serve to educate a few people. At least I hope so.

I work in a pharmacy. On Valentine's Day a pleasant looking, middle-aged man came in to buy a box of candy for his wife. I could see he was a working man so I showed him the more modestly priced boxes. He bought a heart-shaped assortment of chocolate-covered cherries for $3.85. Before I wrapped it he said, "Please wait. I want to put in a card." He carefully selected a 10 cent card, wrote something on it and shyly handed it to me. When he left the drug store I thought, "How lovely."

Three hours later the man was back. With downcast eyes he told me he had come to get a refund. His wife said the box of candy was too expensive. I returned his money and swallowed the lump in my throat. When he walked out of the store he looked depressed and beaten.

Why don't wives realize what it means to a man to be able to bring his wife a nice gift — even if it is too expensive? Don't these women realize they are killing something very precious when they deflate their husbands this way? Please, Ann, a word from you will bring the point home. — Rockford, Ill.

Dear Rock: A letter like yours needs no added word from anybody. You've made the point beautifully and I thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the girl whose fiance had a terrible fight with his mother. He called her some vulgar names and the girl said she was shocked to hear such language from him.

While this does not sound very nice, it is, I believe, healthier than the family set-up my husband came from. Ed and his brothers were ages free and open discussion. She welcomes another point of view. She is also able to admit, on occasion, that she is wrong. Such an atmosphere produces intellectually honest children who are secure and comfortable with their parents.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What to Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

De Pere Man Gets Four Months in Jail
A rural De Pere man was sentenced to four months in the Outagamie County jail Wednesday, for failing to return to jail two weeks ago from his Huber Law job.

Edward Blackthunder, 29, route 2, West De Pere, pleaded guilty Wednesday afternoon to a charge of escape from custody. Sheriff's investigators apprehended Blackthunder Wednesday morning in a house near Oneida. He had failed to report back to the jail April 6.

Lectures for 2nd Week of Indian Spring' Announced

Lectures pertaining to the American Indian will predominate in the second week of Lawrence University's "Indian Spring," a symposium on the campus which began Monday and continues through May 8.

Through lectures, films, exhibits, performances and discussions, the university's presentation of "Indian Spring" is providing a thorough study of the cultural heritage of the American Indian and his quest for identity in today's society. Keynoting the events scheduled for next week will be a lecture by Lawrence alumnus Eric Stokes, currently professor of music at the University of Minnesota. Stokes' lecture (2 p.m. Sunday in Harper Hall), will concern "Horspal," an opera of his own composition first performed in 1969 by the Center Opera Co., Minneapolis, Minn. Following his lecture, a recording of "Horspal," a satirical look at the American Indian, his life and his relationship to America throughout history, will be played in its entirety.

The Memorial Union Riverview Lounge will be the symposium focus on Monday. At 4 p.m., a panel of Menominee Indians will discuss topics of current concern in Menominee County.

Lawrence University's professor of anthropology, Ronald J. Mason will deliver a Phi Beta Kappa lecture at 8 p.m. Wednesday, at the Worcester Art Center. He will discuss the university's excavations in Door County.

The author of articles and monographs on early life in North America, Mason has spent the past several summers working on archaeological excavations in Door County.

Indian affairs at the federal level will be covered in the lecture at 11:10 a.m. on April 29 in the Riverview Lounge by Leon F. Cook, deputy director of economic development for the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Cook, 31, is a member of the Red Lake Chippewa tribe and a well-known expert on Indian economic problems.

"Urban Indian" Following the Cook lecture will be an address by William Hodge, assistant professor of Anthropology and the University Worcester Art Center, an exhibit of photographs taken between 1847-1928 on loan from the Smithsonian Institute on display in the Art Center and the Memorial Union, an exhibit of objects from the collection of the University's Department of Anthropology in Stephenson Hall of Science, and an exhibit of books and examples of the contemporary Indian Press in the Lawrence Carnegie-Appleton Library.

Funds Approved to Educate Students on Criminal Justice

The funding of the second year of the region's program to educate youths about criminal justice and build their respect of it has been approved by the State Juvenile Delinquency Task Force.

The force, an arm of the Wisconsin Council for Criminal Justice, administrator of federal Omnibus Crime Bill funds, approved $13,000 to match about $5,000 in local funds. The funds were sought through the Fox Valley Council of Governments.

Grafton Ray, operator of the program, said the funding will run from May 1, 1971, through Apr. 30, 1972. He said he anticipated another six-month grant then to finish the program, which has the goal of establishing curricula on criminal justice in the region's schools in grades 6-9.

He began developing the program in 1969 and has recently instituted pilots in Menasha and

The governor still must sign the task force approval of funds before they will be forthcoming.

Knicks Still on Both Teams' Minds

Bucks Whip Bullets, 98-88

The Bucks' Greg Smith (4) spoils a layup by Baltimore's John Tresvant during Wednesday's opener of the National Basketball Association's championship series in Milwaukee. The Bucks scored a 98-88 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

By MIKE RECHT
MILWAUKEE (AP)—It was the Milwaukee Bucks against the Baltimore Bullets in the opener of the National Basketball Association championship series, but the spectre of last year's champion New York Knicks hovered over them.
"We played very bad," Coach Gene Shue of the Bullets said simply.
Coach Larry Costello of the Bucks said only a bit more. "We were not sharp. I think Baltimore can play better and I know we can play better."

Both were talking about Milwaukee's sloppy 98-88 uninspiring victory over the Bullets in the nationally televised game Wednesday night for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Knicks Blamed
Oddly, the Knicks, eliminated by Baltimore last Monday in a gruelling seventh game of their semifinal series, were blamed by both clubs for the off-night in Milwaukee had 23 turnovers and Baltimore 14.

"Subconsciously, we have had to readjust our thinking," explained Greg Smith of the Bucks. "We were looking forward to meeting the Knicks, so we had to stop and regroup our thinking for Baltimore."

The Bucks, haunted by the thirst for revenge against the Knicks, who eliminated them in the playoffs last season and were the only team to dominate them this season, had only two days to put the Knicks out of mind and set their sights on the Bullets.

The Bullets were too tired to get their thoughts off their very satisfying victory over the Knicks, who eliminated them the past two years.

"We were drained, emotionally and physically," Shue said, harking back to the knock-down, drag out New York series that took so much out of his team. "In the huddles, we just weren't with it. Our players wanted to win badly... this is the chance of a lifetime... but we just didn't have the emotion."

Without the lift that carried them past the Knicks—despite the loss of starters Eddie Miles, Gus Johnson and Kevin Loughery for all or parts of the series—the Bullets were no match for the heavily-favored Bucks and awesome Lew Alcindor.

With 18 Points
The 7-foot-2 monster man of the middle took the game out of Baltimore's hands in the third quarter with 18 points on eight of 11 shots from the field.

Alcindor, who sat out 15 minutes of the first half in foul trouble and had only eight points and one rebound, raised the Bucks from a 50-42 halftime lead to an 11-point spread entering the final period. With neither team a ball of fire, that type of lead was enough, although the spunky Bullets made one last gasp and pulled within six points before running out of steam.

Alcindor finished with 31 points on 13 field goals in 16 tries and added 16 rebounds in the final half.
Oscar Robertson was the other big Buck, taking over in Alcindor's absence for 15 of his total 22 points in the first half. Earl Monroe had 26 for the Bullets, who hit only 36.4 per cent from the field and 47.6 from the free throw line. Milwaukee, too, was off their record regular season pace of more than 50 per cent from the field, managing only 46.8 despite Alcindor's accuracy.

Costello blamed "careless mistakes" for the Bucks' lackluster showing, although he admitted it was a strange game with an odd pace. "Maybe because Lew was out the first half."

Ray Burns Posts 970 Total

WeyauwegaBowlers Star

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
"Weyauwega Night" went over with a bang at the ninth annual Bowl-O-Rama Wednesday as bowlers from that Wauwaga County community rolled into leading sports in three of four divisions.

Keglers from Weyauwega did their bowling on the 9 p.m. shift last night at the 41 Bowl and when the air had cleared the top 10 in men's Class A showed three from 'Wega, Class B had six in the standings, Class A women had four and there were two in Class B.

Top performance of the night was a booming 970 total for four games, including handicap, turned in by Ray Burns, Weyauwega.

After Appleton's Paul Mandel opened the Bowl-O-Rama Tuesday with a 1,005 to become the first bowler in history to pass the 1,000-pin-mark in the classic, everyone said his score couldn't be touched. Burns came close to doing it as he rolled 888 scratch, just 39 pins short of the 925 scratch that Mandel had.

New Leaders
The new leaders after Wednesday night, all from Weyauwega, are: Russ Balcom, Men's Class B, with 881; Vicky Bielfus, women's Class A, 896 and Romilda Timm, women's Class B, 822.

There is a lull in the Bowl-O-Rama activity tonight as regular leagues are in action at the 41 Bowl. Competition resumes Friday night with shifts at 7 and 9 p.m. and there will be action again Sunday night at the same times. Plenty of openings are still available in the tournament and keggers are reminded that they can compete more than once. Only their highest score can count in the standings, however.

Burns got off to a fast start in his bid for the Class A lead as he rolled 225 and 223 in his first two games. Then he dipped to a 203 and came roaring back with a 235 for his 886 scratch count. Ray had 27 strikes in his four games and carried a handicap total of 84 pins.

Top Scratch Game
Another good performance in Class A was turned in by Karl Schmidt of Neenah who had the top scratch game to date in the tournament. Schmidt blasted a 254 in his second game when he powered nine strikes.

Schmidt had opened with a 215 and then breezing in with a handicap. Russ had a 212 to 264 and talk started buzzing; start with, followed with 180 and about another potential new leader. However, Karl started before slipping to 170.

to feel the pressure and had 179 and 174 in his last two games; third in Class B with a 859 and for a very respectable 836 with his handicap and currently fourth in Class A.

Russ Balcom took over the Class B lead by 17 pins as he hit 769 scratch to go with his 112 for women. After games of 177 and 173, Vicky warmed up to the situation with a 202 and then pounded a 228 scratch.

High game for the women on the 9 p.m. shift was a 232 scratch by Ellen Neuman, Weyauwega, who went into fourth place in Class A. Ellen had six strikes in the high line.

Romilda Timm grabbed the Class B lead with a 626 scratch to go with her 196 pins of handicap for a 822 count, three pins higher than the first night's leader, Barbara Weber, of Appleton. Romilda had 141, 143 and 150 in her first three games and then blasted a 192 to jump into first place.

Squad prize winners last night included Burns, and Schmidt for the men along with Ellen Neuman and Betty Olson, Neenah, for the women. Betty had a 188 game and 36 handicap for a 224 on the 7 p.m. shift.

Cards Shade Giants

Stargell's 3 Homers Lead Pirates Past Atlanta Braves, 10-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those April showers are just the home runs Willie Stargell is raining all over the National League.

The Pittsburgh strong boy, rapidly becoming the biggest menace to Atlanta since Gen. Sherman, whacked three more home runs and drove in five runs as the Pirates trounced the Braves 10-2 Wednesday night.

With nine homers in the young season, Stargell is one short of the major league record for April shared by Baltimore's Frank Robinson and Cincinnati's Tony Perez. Seven of the nine have come against Atlanta pitching.

"This is a funny game," said Stargell. "I can't explain why you do better one night than another."

Neither can the Braves' pitchers, and they aren't even laughing. Nor are the batters who have to face New York's hard-throwing Tom Seaver. The Mets' ace right-hander set a club record of 26 consecutive scoreless innings in a 5-2 victory over Cincinnati.

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis shaded San Francisco 5-3 and Los Angeles headed San Diego its eighth straight defeat 10-2. Houston at Chicago and Philadelphia at Montreal were rained out.

Last year at this time Stargell was "oh for April," hitting, he thinks, about .042. His first homer Wednesday came in the first inning with one man on base and he hit a solo shot in the fourth, both off loser Jim Nash. His third homer, in the sixth, came off Tom Kelley, but he failed in his bid to become the eighth player in baseball history to hit four home runs in a nine-inning game when he struck out against Steve Barber in the seventh.

"I was trying to hit a home run," he confessed.

Merger Talk Revived as Leagues Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—The rival pro basketball leagues are each holding owners meetings here today, raising speculation that merger talks again might be in the wind.

Both leagues, however, denied that merger discussion was formally on the agenda.

The National Basketball Association was meeting to discuss next season's schedule and television plans.

The American Basketball Association, meeting in another mid-town hotel about 20 blocks away, was scheduled to discuss the controversial four-year eligibility rule, the Jim McDaniels dispute, next year's schedule and the site for the 1972 All Star game.

Fuming Lew Takes It Out on Bullets

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lew Alcindor, a dominating basketball player when he is calm, showed Wednesday night how much more overpowering he can be when he becomes angry and frustrated.

"I got a chance to play," was his simple answer after coming off the bench in the third quarter and pumping in 18 points to lead Milwaukee past Baltimore 98-88 in their National Basketball Association championship series opener.

"The rest of the guys had done a great job in getting an eight-point lead in the first half and I wanted to get in there and contribute, too."

Three fouls in the first quarter had limited the 7-foot-2 Milwaukee star to only nine minutes of play and eight points in the first half and left him fuming.

"They (the officials) just didn't call that type of foul so tightly during the season," he said, referring to the two offensive fouls he picked up. "I think the fouls were questionable."

The calls left the usually passive, poker-faced center screaming angrily several times at the officials, but he regained his composure after the intermission.

"We go to him as much as possible... he's our offensive," Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said of the third quarter burst.

"But Dick (reserve center Dick Cunningham) kept us in there when he did a good job on Unseld."

Wes Unseld, the 6-9 Baltimore center, knew the Bullets were in for trouble from Alcindor after that frustrating first half.

"I know he was going to come out firing," he said.

Alcindor gave credit to his teammates for "hitting me in good position" with passes.

"Baltimore also wasn't able to sag that much on me because we were shooting well from outside," added the 31-point scorer.

Thelin to be Honored At 2nd Viking Relays

The late Howard S. Thelin will be with the Lawrence University track team in spirit this weekend, as LU plays host for the second annual Viking Relays.

Howard Thelin

Thelin, who served for more than a decade as an official at Lawrence track meets, has been designated honorary referee for the meet, which brings to Whiting Field seven teams in addition to Lawrence.

Thelin, owner of Conkey's Book Store and a long-time friend of the university, died last January.

Field events for the Viking Relays will begin at noon, and the track events, at 1 p.m. Three Lawrence University coaches have been elected by the team to rule as relay queens. They are Joy Jaekle, Evansville, Ind.; Jone Bocher, Johnson Creek, and Kathryn Pfefferkorn, Two Rivers.

Teams, besides Lawrence, competing in the Viking Relays include Beloit, Coe, Carroll, Lakeland, Concordia (Milwaukee), Milton and Judson, (Elgin, Ill.)

Foxes' Banquet Slated Tonight

A few tickets remain for tonight's "Welcome Foxes" banquet and will be sold at the door, an Appleton Baseball club spokesman reported this morning.

The banquet will start at 7 p.m. at the Columbus Club. Bob Quinn, of the Milwaukee Brewers, will be guest speaker.

Cousy, Pettit and Saperstein Inducted Into Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Bob Cousy and Bob Pettit, a pair of all-time National Basketball Association greats, and the late Abe Saperstein, founder of the Harlem Globetrotters, were inducted into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame Wednesday night.

All-America Sidney Wicks of UCLA was honored as the outstanding senior college player in the country, and Charlie Johnson of California was presented an award as the outstanding player under six feet.

Tigers Rap Baltimore, 5-1; Nats Win

Jim Northrup's Hot Bat Stings Orioles

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Who's on first? Jim Northrup. As a matter of fact, he's on second, third and home plate, too.

"Northrup is hot," says Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver. "and when you're hot, you're hot."

Baltimore's been burned two nights in a row by the Detroit outfielder, so Weaver speaks from painful, first-hand experience. Northrup, who delivered four runs in Tuesday night's Detroit victory, belted in three more Wednesday night as the Tigers bumped the Birds 5-1.

The powerhouse performances have lifted Northrup in front in the American League's RBI race. But they haven't done a thing for his ego.

"I don't think I'll ever be a superstar like the Willie Mays, Hank Aaron and Mickey Mantles," said Northrup after hitting a home run and two doubles. "I don't think I'll ever fit into that category. A superstar is a guy who plays 15 years or more and does the job all those years."

Won't Fill Park
"I'm not going to fill any ball parks. But, to a kid who likes Jim Northrup... well, then, maybe I'm a superstar. It depends how you define it."

The fans in the center field bleachers at Tiger Stadium have their own definition.

When Northrup loped out to his position after his sixth-inning double, they gave him a standing ovation. Northrup doffed his hat and grinned.

Stunned Bando Powers A's Into American West Lead

ANAHEIM (AP) — Sal Bando shook his head in disbelief. "I'm stunned," he said.

The California Angels are a maybe two — but three little dazed too, after what Bando, the Oakland third baseman, did to them for the second straight night.

Bando slammed a two-run homer in the 13th inning Wednesday to gave the A's a 4-2 victory and hike their lead in the American League West to two games.

Tuesday night Bando had hit two homers and driven in three runs in a 4-0 triumph.

What he'll do for an encore tonight when the three-game series concludes is anybody's guess. Vida Blue, 3-1, will start for Oakland against California's Andy Messersmith, 1-1.

"This kind of thing is scary," he said. "I can see one night, straight? I guess this would be a good time to go out in the streets and look for wallets."

Bando's game-winner came after Eddie Fisher, the fifth Angel pitcher, had walked Don Mincher with one out in the 13th. It was a liner into the leftfield seats for Bando's fifth of the season, best in the American League.

"I didn't think it was going," Bando said. "But when I saw Jerry (A's third base coach Jerry Lumpe) jumping up and down I knew it was out."

The victory was the ninth in 10 games for the surging Athletics — all on the road — and it left the Angels, a 7-2 road team themselves, with a 1-4 record at Anaheim.

Boston whipped Detroit 9-7. Washington outscored the New York Yankees 9-6 and Oakland stopped California 4-2 in 13 innings in the other American League games.

Wet grounds postponed Kansas City at Minnesota and the Chicago at Milwaukee game was wiped out by cold weather.

Second Fiddle
Northrup, who's long played second fiddle to a cast of Detroit stars like Al Kaline and Norm Cash, is off to the best getaway of his eight-year major league career with 17 RBIs.

While Mickey Lolich held baseball's defending champions in check with five hits, Northrup bugged the Birds with a solo home run in the first inning and run-producing doubles in the third and fifth. Lolich struck out nine Orioles, whose only score was Andy Etchebarren's third inning homer.

The two-game Tiger sweep didn't disturb Weaver.

"It'll take us two days longer to clinch the pennant," he said.

Club 4 Hits
Carl Yastrzemski clubbed four hits, including a home run and two-out eighth-inning double which drove in the tie-breaking run for Boston. Yaz was surprised the Indians de-

Ageless Wonder Blanda Held in Awe by Norm Bulaich, Alan Page

By PAT THOMPSON
ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Norm Bulaich of the Baltimore Colts and Alan Page of the Minnesota Vikings were two of the National Football League players honored Wednesday night at the Twin Cities pro football dinner.

And they spoke almost in awe of a third person honored by more than 1,000 at a St. Paul hotel.

"I was only two years old when he started playing," said Bulaich, who was presented a rookie of the year award.

"When he started I was only four," said Page, honored as the player of the year.

The third guest? Ageless Blanda.

George Blanda, just as he did in leading the Oakland Raiders to a conference championship with his kicking and last second quarterback, shrugged off his age in accepting the pro athlete of the year award from banquet sponsors.

"They kid me about the generation gap," said the 43-year-old Blanda. "My age doesn't bother me. I just hope I can continue to play for another two or three years. I've been in pro football 21 years and I love it. I can't understand those players who try to undermine the game."

He referred to controversial books by former NFL players, who have criticized pro football.

Another Paige

Blanda, introduced as the Satchel Paige of football, first began playing in the NFL with the Chicago Bears in 1949 and later joined the old American Football League before the merger.

"I said when I first started in pro football that I was going to try it for one year and see what happened," said Blanda.

Dick Nolan of the San Francisco 49ers was given a coach-of-the-year award. Among other head table guests were Vikings Coach Bud Grant, television commentator Howard Cosell and several Minnesota players.

Page, a member of the Vikings rugged defensive front four, promised "in 1971 if I don't improve, I don't deserve this award tonight."

Cosell ignored a couple of catcalls as the main after-dinner speaker in discussing the role of sports in the country and Monday night television games. The sometimes controversial commentator also took time to return barbs thrown him by previous speakers.

Round-by-Round Scoring Will Be Shown to TV Boxing Fans

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Boxing fans never know who's winning for sure until the fight is over.

But, that may be the beginning to change.

Television viewers of Saturday night's Bob Foster-Ray Anderson light heavyweight title bout will be shown the scores of the referees and judges immediately after each round.

Since it's the brainchild of the American Teleports Network, the cumulative scorecard will not be shown to "live" spectators at Curtis Hixon Hall.

"Boxing is the only sport where the as-you-go score is kept secret," said Bill Schwing, president of the new independent TV network.

"Not only the fans have been in the dark, but the boxers."

Champion Foster and challenger Anderson won't know their round-by-round scores until it's over, but Schwing conceded Thursday that full knowledge for all could be the next step.

Could Make Difference

"Suppose the audience had known Joe Frazier was well ahead of Muhammad Ali even before the 15th round knock-down," he said. "Then, it would have been obvious that Ali needed a key to win."

The network plans to bring regularly-scheduled prime time boxing back to home television for the first time in eight years.

"We'll do one bout a month," said Schwing, "and it's pretty certain we have attracted every division's best fighters with the exception of the heavyweights."

The heavies such as Frazier and Ali do their stuff for more lucrative theater television.

Bad Knees Sidelined Ernie

Banks to Bolster Slumping Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Banks, the Chicago Cubs' unsinkable optimist, officially starts the 1971 baseball season today and it may be a boon to the struggling Bruins.

Banks, 40-year-old first baseman, was placed on the disabled list April 1 because of arthritic knees and he missed being in the opening-day lineup for the first time since his first full Cub season in 1954.

"I feel fine, just fine," said the ever-smiling Banks, "and I hope that in some way I can continue to help the Cubs."

That "some way" probably will be mainly in a pinch-hitting role and spot appearances at first base where Manager Leo Durocher already has used two other players.

The Cubs, left at the starting gate in the National League East race with a 5-9 record, try to conclude a rain-interrupted series with the Houston Astros today.

Wednesday's game was rained out. The Cubs defeated the Astros 3-1 in Tuesday's opener of a 12-game home stand.

The Cubs could get more than moral support from Banks, who batted .407 in the 12 spring exhibition games his ailing knees permitted him to play.

Ehlert Pitches 5-Hit Victory in Non-Loop Game

CLINTONVILLE — Rusty Ehlert hurled a 5-hitter as the Clintonville Truckers edged Shawano, 2-1, Wednesday in a non-conference baseball game.

Ehlert fanned seven and didn't issue a walk. Shawano's only run came in the top of the second on an error, a stolen base and a single.

Clintonville erased the marker in the bottom half of the inning as Ehlert was safe on an error, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on Glen Olsons' single.

The Truckers pushed across two runs in the fifth of Bill Muller's single, a sacrifice, Brian Dunlavey's RBI single, and Craig LeBeau's run-producing double.

Clintonville is 2-1 for the season, while Shawano has split four decisions.

cided to pitch to him in the eighth with a man on second, first base open and right-hander Vince Colbert on the mound for the Indians.

The three-time American League batting champion then whistled the first pitch on a line to left field, where it eluded Roy Foster's diving shoestring try. Joe Lahoud scored the go-ahead run from second.

Frank Howard stroked a run-scoring single with two out in the eighth inning to break a tie for Washington and the Senators added two more in the ninth.

Washington Manager Ted Williams was satisfied with the Senators' breakout of 18 safeties: "I think that's the most hits I've seen by one club in Yankee Stadium."

Sal Bando unloaded a two-run homer in the top of the 13th to give Oakland a comeback victory over California. The Athletics had tied the game at 2-2 in the ninth inning on Joe Rudi's leadoff homer off Rudy May.

Until Rudi's blast, May had given Oakland only two hits and struck out 12.

WINNECONNE — Hortonville swept four events and captured 10 first in whipping Winneconne, 83-44, in a dual track meet Tuesday.

Winneconne's Gary Schmidt was the only double winner — in the shot and discus.

The Polar Bears swept the 2-mile run, high jump, 220-yard dash and 880-yard run.

John Ziegler, hampered by a sprained ankle, paced Hortonville with 84 points with a first in the 100, a tie for second in the 220 and as anchor of the 880 relay team.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Cutouts Can Brighten Drag Drawing Tools

BY CAPPY DICK

The boy or girl who owns a T-square can put up the appearance of the drawing tool by applying some decorations of his or her choice. This will own and not one that belongs to Dad or big brother or anyone else who might object to having it decorated. Once the decorations have been applied it is not likely they can be removed successfully without leaving traces.

The easy way to do the decorating is by gluing small cutouts to the wood. These cutouts can be of any subject of special interest to you. In the illustration, cutouts of motor vehicles were used to create a line of traffic. The cross-bar of the T-square was decorated with wide slanting stripes to represent a railroad crossing gate. These were applied with a broad-pointed marking pen.

If you prefer, you can glue pictures not only to the long portion of the T-square, but to the cross-bar as well. Pictures of animals, flowers, airplanes or any other subjects can be used.

When the cutouts are firmly in place and glue has dried, apply a coat of clear shellac so the T-square can be wiped clean from time to time.

SEND FOR THIS BOOKLET OF PARTY STUNTS!

Mothers, fathers, aunts, uncles! If you are planning a party for the children and need new ideas to use for fun, you'll find 45 good ones in Cappy Dick's "Birthday Party Stunts" booklet. To get a copy, send 50 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to CAPPY DICK BOOKLETS, P.O. Box 42877, Evergreen Park, Illinois 60642.

Use Cutouts

give the T-square a distinctive appearance so it probably will be unlike any other in the world.

Be sure, of course, the T-square you decorate is your

Researcher Claims Amateurs Able to Gauge Stock Market

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most revealing and rewarding pastimes for an investor is to go back over the recommendations of securities advisers and compare their forecasts with conditions that actually ensued.

Revealing in the sense that the investor will see how glib and cheap is much investment advice. Rewarding in that he will learn how cheap advice can be costly and therefore to be ignored in the future.

In late November and early December of 1968, with the market ready to slide into a prolonged decline that would be the worst since 1929, long-term views by member firms of the New York Stock Exchange included:

Buying Opportunities
—“There are now and will be many good buying opportunities during this present tax adjustment period . . . A large reservoir of buying power is still on the sidelines, waiting to ‘uncover’ new and attractive situations.”

—“Right now we have bullish action in all three key segments of the market . . . The technical background is very strong, and there is not enough adverse fundamental news to make us doubt our interpretation . . .”

—“The upside implication . . . plainly points to considerably higher levels, i.e., 1300 (for the Dow Jones Industrial Average) over the longer term and a possibly nearer term 1100 to be reached, say, in the first half of 1969.”

Many people have threatened to dig up the damning records that so often, and curiously, remain safely interred, permitting so many vain forecasters to boast, “As I told you last year . . .”

Look at Records
John Springer did look at the records, and now he has written a book, to be published soon by Henry Regnery Co., about the quality of investment advice. It has the provocative title, “If They’re So Smart, How Come You’re Not Rich?”

Read it and you’ll likely maintain your own counsel hereafter. The forecasts quoted above are not isolated examples. Springer claims that a study of market letters at that time showed bullishness by an 8 to 1 ratio.

The evidence assembled, much of it previously published but not so skillfully coordinated, shows that investment advisers not only need not be smart, but they need be almost nothing else either.

“As long as you have no criminal record and have not been caught violating securities laws,” Springer states, “you may set up your own advisory service and advertise for clients.”

Must Register
“You can hang out your shingle, invite clients to your office, and manage their money, taking a percentage of their assets as your fee. To do these things you only have to register with the Securities and Exchange Commission . . .”

Springer concludes that an investor is best advised to make his own decisions based on the greatest amount of information he can acquire. “Professional” advice, he insists, is often from the mouths of amateurs.

“Investment advisory services make promises they cannot fulfill, claim to do research they do not do, and sometimes practice outright fraud upon their customers,” he writes.

Much of the so-called advice is meant “not to serve the interest of the investors to whom it is addressed,” but instead to generate broker commissions. “Even when advice is honestly motivated, it is likely to be bad.”

Business Themes
Springer, a professional writer on business themes, concludes that “over the whole area of investment advice lies one appalling fact: it lacks standards.” The field attracts “hordes who could not meet any professional standards of education or experience that might be established.”

Springer is out to prove a case and he has documented his conclusions well, whether it involves market letter writers, brokerage house officers, wholesalers of research, mutual fund managers, trust officers, and so forth.

Unfortunately, the good get tarnished with the bad. Rational thinking dictates there are good advisers somewhere, and Springer doesn’t deny it. Moreover, there are many firms with high standards and some with good results.

But what Springer does seem to succeed in doing is to argue convincingly that the process of finding a good adviser is much more difficult than finding a good stock.

Your Money’s Worth FTC Rulings Designed To Protect Consumer

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The Federal Trade Commission in Washington has proposed a regulation requiring all manufacturers of detergents containing phosphates to publish on the labels of these detergents how much phosphorous is contained in each package. It has also urged manufacturers of detergents now containing phosphates to list the percentage of ALL ingredients. The detergent manufacturers are challenging the proposals — but some improvements are surely coming in labels to help you shop for non-polluting household products.

The FTC has ruled that, as of this coming June 28, gasoline stations must post the octane ratings of each grade of gas they sell on their pumps. (A high octane rating designates relatively greater anti-knock properties.)

The oil industry is challenging this ruling, but, insists the FTC, the average U.S. driver pays $50 to $75 a year more than necessary simply because he buys gas with an octane rating higher than his car engine requires.

As of this past Jan. 25, as a result of still another FTC ruling, packages of light bulbs must disclose not only the voltage and wattage but also the average light output (in terms of “lumens”) and life expectancy of the bulbs to help you make valid comparisons on real cost savings.

A powerful trend is now developing to equip you, the consumer, with enough information to choose intelligently among products in the marketplace. Better labels obviously are an important key to major savings, for without the fundamental information that only labels can give, how can we possibly tell where the bargains are?

Here are other areas in which pressure is mounting for more and better product labeling:

Clothes care labels: We must be able to find, on a tag sewn into each item, basic information on whether the material should be dry cleaned, machine washed, hand washed; whether hot irons should be avoided; whether bleach is permissible; how to prevent fading, etc. It is unreasonable to expect us to know how to handle each of today’s array of fabrics — or even to keep a meaningful file of throwaway tags.

Cigarettes: Each cigarette package label should reveal its tar and nicotine content. The FTC has warned the industry that if it does not produce a workable labeling plan SOON, Washington will.

Appliance labeling: The buyer of small appliances should have far more information to use to compare brands. The Maytag Co. in Newton, Iowa, now attaches to every appliance it sells a tag describing the type of product, how long it is likely to last, its key features, safety precautions, details of the warranty, the amount of space you need to install the product, and the amount of water or electricity to operate it.

Could Choose
Thus, you could choose and compare on the basis of long life expectancy if all other appliance manufacturers also labeled their wares in this manner. Appliance labels should also provide better ways to compare the performance of brands — how fast, how strong, how economical each is, etc.

Insect repellent warnings: Consumers Union in Mt. Vernon, New York, recently reported that many bug repellent labels failed to warn of possible hazards to human skin, as well as to fine fabrics. CU asked for indication on the containers of how long the repellent might remain effective.

Why can’t drug labels tell us when we should throw the drugs away? Why can’t we have details on dangerous combinations of drugs? Why can’t labels on such “perishable” durables as dry cell batteries tell us when these products will no longer be usable, and small appliance labels tell us the dates of manufacture?

Life on Earth Is in Danger, Nelson Warns

Senator Stresses Seriousness of Pollution Fight

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — While significant steps have been taken in the past two years to fight pollution, Sen. Gaylord Nelson said here Tuesday that he "seriously questions" if the earth can support life in the not too distant future.

The Wisconsin Democrat, organizer of Earth Day last May, spoke to students at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay during Earth Week, which he also promoted.

The senator pointed to ending the SST project, rejection of a cross-Florida barge canal, cleaning up the Mississippi River and laws to reduce pollution in auto engines as "significant steps to protect our environment."

He disclosed that he would not have opposed building a supersonic transport if the Nixon administration had guaranteed that it would not damage the environment.

No Report

Nelson said the administration refuses to release one report. "I've asked for it five times on the floor of the Senate," he added.

Transportation Secretary John Volpe, explaining why the report was not made public, said it was outdated, Nelson went on.

While the public has forced politicians to acknowledge the present danger to the environment, "nobody is yet even asking, let alone answering" some important questions, the senator said.

One concern is how long the world can continue to consume nonrenewable natural resources at the current pace.

Nelson quoted author Harrison Brown as predicting exhaustion of national resources such as minerals and oil within 75 years.

Another question is: "Can this planet support — with quality — 7.5 billion people in 40 years?" Nelson then stated, "I think there's a serious question, and if so, what will be the quality of life?"

He added he believes earth "absolutely cannot" support the 11 billion people predicted by the year 2500.

Judge Orders Probation in Forgery Case Clintonville Man Pleads No Contest To Bad Check Count

WAUPACA — Donald F. Hillmer, 34, route 2, Clintonville, pleaded no contest Tuesday in County Court Branch 2 to the charge of forgery.

Hillmer, represented by a court-appointed attorney, told Judge Nathan Wiese that the evidence stated in a criminal complaint by the sheriff's department was correct. The defendant cashed a check in the amount of $950 made out to him and signed by one Mike Ziegler, drawn on the Montello State Bank at the Clintonville Bank on Feb. 27.

Investigation disclosed that Hillmer and Ziegler were the same person and that Hillmer had opened a checking account at the Montello State Bank by depositing $150 cash in Mike Ziegler's name on Feb. 2.

Another check, similarly forged but no part of Tuesday's court action, was cashed at the Embarrass Bank in the amount of $965.

Trial Waived

All rights for a trial were waived and Wiese placed the first-time offender on two years probation to the Wisconsin Health and Social Services Department. As a condition of that probation, Hillmer is to make full restitution for the check at the Clintonville bank (plus any similarly issued checks) pay his attorney's fees and court costs and seek psychiatric help within the next 30 days at the Wolf River Mental Health Clinic, Shawano or Waupaca.

Wiese withheld sentence which could be up to 10 years in state prison, $5,000 fine, or both, and explained to the defendant that if probation is violated a sentence would be invoked.

Hillmer has been held in the Waupaca County jail since his arrest on April 14, in lieu of a $5,000 property bond or $500 cash and one signer.

Rescue Service by Cities

contemplated.

City ambulances do not go on the "simple transportation" calls. "Only a fire department can successfully run emergency ambulances," said Chief James Burhans.

Kenosha

Two small van trucks are used by the Kenosha Fire Department in providing the city's only emergency ambulance service. A third van is on order. Three men, who double as fire fighters, man the rescue squads which, although providing patient conveyance, does not charge.

Non-emergency ambulance services are provided through Kenosha funeral homes. Between 3,500 and 3,600 runs are made by the fire department rescue squad each year.

LaCrosse

The LaCrosse Fire Department does only heavy duty emergency rescue work and has no vehicle equipped to transport patients. A private service and the police department provide ambulance services.

Manitowoc

A private firm handles nearly all of the emergency ambulance work in Manitowoc where the fire department has a rescue vehicle which made 238 runs last year but transported only 15 patients. The only time transportation is provided is when an ambulance is not available. No charge is made for patient conveyance.

Oshkosh

Around-the-clock staffing, as required under city ordinance, is provided by the private ambulance firm that is contracted by Oshkosh. The firm, which does nearly all of the emergency ambulance work in Oshkosh, maintains three vehicles. The fire department responds to many emergency calls and does have a portable stretcher does little patient conveyance. Until last spring, Oshkosh had two private ambulance services.

Racine

The Racine Fire Department has been in the ambulance-rescue squad business about 30 years, according to Fire Chief Russell Anderson. Eighteen of the department's 169 firemen are assigned to the three ambulance-rescue vehicles, with three men to a unit.

Anderson said that if his men get a call and later determine it is not an emergency situation, one of the two private ambulance services will be summoned for transportation. Some city firemen work off-duty for the ambulance services. There is no charge for the city service. Last year, ambulance-rescue runs totalled 2,739.

Sheboygan

The police department and one private service provide ambulances in Sheboygan. The service has never been operated out of the fire department which has a big vehicle for heavy duty rescue work.

Superior

The Superior Fire Department had the ambulance business until 1955 when it was turned over to the Douglas County Sheriff's Department. The fire department still provides rescue service but does not transport patients. There are no private ambulance firms in the city.

Wausau

The fire department was given the ambulance-rescue business in Wausau in 1962 when it was taken out of the Police department. There has not been a private ambulance firm in the city for about 15 years, according to Fire Chief W. G. Petzold.

Wausau differs from most other Wisconsin cities in that its public ambulances provide both local and long distance patient transportation. One fireman and one policeman man the ambulances for long trips, while local service is handled by the 60-man fire department. Police also operate the ambulances in event of large fires.

The charge of $10 per in-city run and $60 plus 25 cents per mile for long distance runs provides enough revenue to "keep us in ambulances," Petzold said. It does not cover the cost of manpower. There were about 1,500 runs logged by Wausau's ambulances last year.

Wauwatosa

Both ambulance and emergency services are handled by the Wauwatosa Fire Department which uses three small, van-type vehicles. Although emergency first aid services have been provided since the department was started, patient transportation was started only five years ago. Ambulance and rescue runs last year totaled 1,800. The department does not charge for the service. There are private ambulance firms in West Allis.

The 143-man West Allis Fire Department has three small vans it uses for rescue and ambulance work at no charge. Three firemen are assigned to each vehicle. About the only type of rescue - ambulance work not provided is that for traffic accidents which are handled by police ambulance. The fire department also provides transportation to and from nursing homes. The department responded to 1,840 ambulance calls last year. The city has two private ambulance services.

Schaefer Criticized By Appeals Court

Although citing judicial immunity in upholding the dismissal of a $50,000 civil suit brought against Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, the United States Court of Appeals has criticized him for his actions two years ago in a case involving an Appleton man charged with marijuana and narcotics violations.

Charles E. Jacobson, 22, 1298 N. Superior St., who now is in the Wisconsin State Reformatory, brought the suit against Schaefer.

Jacobson alleged that his civil rights were violated when Schaefer ordered that money to pay his court-appointed attorney be taken from bail money that had been posted for him, resulting in his loss of freedom.

Schaefer had set Jacobson's bail at $3,000 after the former rural Kaukauna man appeared in court on the felony charges. Jacobson's father, Alex, route 1, Kaukauna, furnished the bail.

Jacobson later was found indigent and an attorney was appointed for him at county expense. In July, 1969, Jacobson's fiancée, now his wife, offered him funds to employ his own counsel.

Schaefer required Jacobson to answer why, although he was unable to pay his court-appointed attorney, he was free on bail and was able to hire his own lawyer. Schaefer also ordered Jacobson to attempt to pay the first lawyer's fee.

Jacobson's father informed Schaefer that he was unwilling to have some of the $3,000 bail money he had posted go toward paying the attorney because he had borrowed the money on his life insurance, he was totally disabled, his only source of income was his Social Security and he had two minor children at home.

When Jacobson did not pay the $675 bill, Schaefer ordered that the amount be taken from the bail money in the clerk of court's office. Schaefer then found Jacobson in default of bond and ordered him remanded to jail. Schaefer also ordered that no further bail be accepted without his specific approval.

Jacobson, through his Appleton attorney, filed the damage suit in the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin. Citing the judge's protection under judicial immunity, the court granted a motion for a summary judgment dismissing the suit.

The U. S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, in affirming the action of the district court, said, "The conduct of the county judge ... is shocking and there would appear to be no justification for such conduct ..."

The court also stated, "Obviously, the use of his jurisdiction to coerce the reimbursement of allegedly owed legal fees was a clear abuse of power, especially when other channels existed for recovery of any such legal fees which might have been owed."

Although the appeals court noted that it had found nothing in Wisconsin statutes which expressly grants to judges in criminal cases the authority to attach conditions to bail that do not directly relate to assuring the defendant's appearance at trial, Schaefer, through "general jurisdiction," had power to attach some conditions to Jacobson's bail.

Protected From Suits

And, despite what the court viewed as Schaefer's abuse of power, it held that a judge is protected from damage suits under the doctrine of judicial immunity which, the appeals judges noted, "... is traditionally considered to be one of the best established of our common law doctrines."

In its opinion published this month, the appeals court wrote, "... even though a judge may be accused of malicious or corrupt conduct, he still will be immune from a damage suit for acts committed within his jurisdiction."

Citing a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision, the appeals judges said that such "immunity from damages is felt to be necessary to preserve the 'principled and fearless decision making' of the judiciary."

Jacobson was convicted on the charges for which the $3,000 bail had been set. A Door County judge, named after Schaefer disqualified himself, placed Jacobson on probation and ordered a jail sentence.

Jacobson, whose probation recently was revoked, resulting in his being sent to the reformatory, faces another drug charge.

School Board OKs Budget for Brillion

BRILLION — Departmental budgets for the 1971-72 school year totaling $53,765, up $2,000 over the current year, were approved at a recent board of education meeting here.

A new course in biochemistry was okayed for next year and will be team-taught by the biology and chemistry teachers. It will be an elective subject open to juniors and seniors. Biology will be a freshmen elective, but all students must take the course as a graduation requirement. Presently earth science is a required course at the freshmen level but will become an elective next year. Two credits of science are required for graduation.

Two teachers to be added to next year's staff will work in the mathematics-science and English-physical education areas, the board decided.

An attempt will be made to set up an eight-period day with 45 minutes per class for the ensuing year. The new arrangement will be presented.

ment would provide more opportunity to schedule students, assist in cutting down physical education class sizes and provide for earlier school dismissal, the board contends.

The district intends to hire a vocational coordinator on a part-time basis through Cooperative Education Service Agency-10.

Hebbe, Fredericks Retire

New London Council Loses Two Veterans

NEW LONDON — Two of the older members of the City Council stepped down with little fanfare Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the old and new councils.

The 2nd Ward representative for the past four years, Elmer Hebbe, was replaced after deciding not to run for re-election in the spring race.

He had served on various committees and was chairman of the traffic and public safety committee for a term. His immediate retirement plans call for fishing and spending the summer on the water.

The other retiree is Walter Fredericks, longtime veteran from the 3rd Ward. Fredericks served 23 years in the city's service.

He was mayor for two years, spent 16 years on the council, and was county commissioner for many years. Fredericks was president of the council for nine years, chaired the Board of Health for 11 years, and was chairman of the town chairmen-city committee for the school system before the city had a unified district.

"I don't believe anyone could anticipate the way the councils have changed over the years," Fredericks commented. He first served in 1918.

"I enjoyed the years spent there, but I am not sorry to leave. I'm not leaving with a grudge or anything," he noted.

In leaving Fredericks revealed his philosophy used while serving on the council: "Beware of pressure groups and don't let too many outside groups pressure the council." He also warned, "Don't let your spending go beyond the earning power of the city."
